ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 23 (AP)—Lieut. General Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today receipt of a message from President Roosevelt declaring he was returning from North Africa to the United States with renewed confidence that American soldiers "shall be victorious."

The message, addressed to American soldiers in North Africa by the commander in chief, said:

"My brief visit to North Africa has given me increased assurance and a deeper feeling of pride in the leaders and men of the American armed forces.

"The officers and men who landed with the initial assault, those who are now carrying on at the front in Tunisia, and those who are training themselves for future combat are deserving of the highest commendation.

"I could not but note your alertness, your smartness and the pride you take in yourself and your splendid equipment. I return to the United States with renewed confidence that the American soldiers, equipped with the best equipment the world can produce, led by men who have proved themselves in battle, and all imbued with the will to win, shall be victorious.

"Officers and men of the armed forces in North Africa—I commend you.

"PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, COMMANDER IN CHIEF."

2 TONS OF RAF BOMBS ROCK RHINE AREA

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The RAF hit the German city of Duesseldorf with high explosives and incendiary bombs last night during the fourth Allied aerial blow at the German war machine in two nights and a day, it was announced today.

"Preliminary reports of last night's raid on the Rhineland by Lancasters and Halifaxes show that several hundred tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped on Duesseldorf in 20 minutes," an authoritative statement said.

TUNISIA—Rommel's forces were strung out along the coast near Mareth (1) today as the British Eighth Army contacted Axis rear-guards 30 miles west (2) of Tripoli. Yanks drove ahead north of Ousseltia (3) and aimed French in advances.

The air ministry had reported six bombers were missing from a heavy attack on industrial objectives in the Rhineland, which continued a cycle of raids featured by the first U. S. Air Force assault on the Reich and the first bombing of Copenhagen.

Duesseldorf, a center of transport and heavy industry in northwest Germany, is 160 miles southwest of the Wilhelmshaven naval base which, with Emden, was heavily pounded yesterday by United States heavy bombers.

NAZI STRIKE BACK

The German high command, in a communique broadcast from Berlin, sought to discount the effect of the American blows. It declared "a daylight attempt under the cover of clouds to bomb targets at Helgoland bay were foiled by fighters and AA defenses."

Striking back by daylight, German fliers attacked a southeast English coast town this morning, inflicting considerable damage and some casualties.

Some of Britain's biggest aircraft, Lancasters and Halifaxes each capable of carrying four two-ton blockbusters, are participating in the blows against the Rhineland.

The ministry described the attack as "heavy," but did not indicate the number of planes participating.

REDS INVADE FINN PORT?

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Morocco radio broadcast a report today credited to "a Swedish source" that the Red army had entered Petsamo, Finland.

This report lacked confirmation. Morocco radio is at Rabat, its operation still in French hands. Reports have indicated it is under some degree of Allied supervision. There have been hints it might be used by the Allies in the war of nerves against the Axis.

The port of Petsamo, and the district of the same name, are above the Arctic circle in the narrow bit of Finland which separates Russia from far northern Norway. The port, some 65 miles northwest of Russia's port of Murmansk, is Finland's outlet to the Arctic ocean.

There have been no reports from Russia or Germany of army activity in that region. Murmansk, a vital port for Allied supplies flowing to Russia, has been under German air attack regularly, however.

MOSCOW, Jan. 28 (AP)—Hint of a new Russian offensive, launched from the Tuapse sector of the Black sea coast, was given in today's official announcement of the Red army's occupation of Apsheonskaya and Neftegorsk, southwest of Maikop, center of the only oil region Hitler's armies were able to take in Russia.

Apsheonskaya is little more than 19 miles from Maikop, and Neftegorsk is 25 miles southwest of the oil center which was burned and blasted by the Russians before they moved out in the face of the German advance early last summer.

It was held unlikely Hitler's troops were able to get much oil out of the Maikop fields.

DENMARK—While flights of Fortresses and Liberators were blasting Wilhelmshaven and Emden in the first All-American air blow at Germany, RAF fliers bombed Copenhagen, Denmark, for the first time, blasting shipyards.

RUSSIA—Red army troops roll to another sector within 60 miles of Rostov and push on Kursk from the south and southeast, gaining a point within 80 miles of the big Nazi base. Meanwhile, new Red drive opens northwest of Voronezh.

Yanks Rip Japs On Wake Island

HONOLULU, Jan. 28 (INS)—Severe damage has been inflicted on Japanese installations at tiny Wake island by American B-24 Liberator bombers which turned an intended reconnaissance flight into a new, successful bombing mission.

The air result, the first against Wake since it was blasted last Christmas Eve, was carried out on Monday.

Details of the new assault were revealed by Col. William Matheny, of Carrington, N. D., leader of the attack force, who also led the Christmas raid, upon his return to headquarters of the United States Seventh Air Force here.

Col. Matheny said that the lengthy flight to Wake from an undisclosed American base involved a takeoff before dawn and that the planes did not return to base until after dark. The assault on Wake took place about noon.

Primarily a reconnaissance mission, Col. Matheny said, the sortie resulted in a successful bombing which inflicted new damage on the Jap installations.

Anti-aircraft fire from Jap batteries was heavier than during the Christmas bombardment and enemy fighters rose to challenge the Consolidated bombers but gave up the fight within a short time after suffering heavy losses.

Col. Matheny said he saw one Jap Zero fighter hit the water and four others go down spinning and smoking. He believed his fliers probably got five of eight Zeros which pursued the American bombers.

DIET HEARS TOJO BOAST OF VICTORY

By The Associated Press
Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo told the Japanese Diet today victories achieved by Japan's armed forces during the past year had laid the foundations for certain victory over the United States and Britain, whom he charged with "sinister ambitions to dominate the world."

Tojo, whose address was reported by the Tokyo radio in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, boasted that Japan's position, both for offense and defense, had been completed by the establishment of outlying bases and by the acquisition of vast natural resources.

Poor atmospheric conditions

blackened out many portions of Tojo's speech.

The address marked the reconvening of the Diet after the New Year's recess. The session had been delayed a week because of Tojo's illness, according to Japanese announcements, and the Tokyo radio said he was still suffering from fever.

CITES U. S. SHORTAGE

Tojo said casually that "of course it will require great efforts on our part to make these resources demonstrate their real wealth and power" but he said Japan's position nevertheless was secure.

"In contrast to our position," he said, "the United States and Britain—which boasted of their wealth and resources before the war—now are experiencing a great shortage in vital war resources. As for the supply of rubber and tin, which they previously obtained from the Southwest Pacific regions, they now are so uneasy and distressed they cannot succeed in concealing their predicament."

Turning to Japan's war aims, he said the Japanese people were fighting for a "great ideal" they had cherished for 3000 years—"to enable all countries, each in its proper place, and all peoples to live their lives in peace and security."

Japan, he declared, sought only to "bring about real world peace in co-operation with our allies who share the same purpose."

VEILS TROUBLES AT HOME

"This object," Tojo added, "compared with the traditional ambition of the Anglo-American countries to promote their own prosperity at the sacrifice of other countries and monopolize the world by exploiting other peoples, is wholly different in its essence." Tokyo radio said Tojo appeared in spite of his fever to avoid further halts in the Diet's war program. Outside Japan speculation was that the delay cloaked a crisis in Tokyo over efforts of the premier and the military power for which he speaks to gather complete control of war production into their own hands. It was hardly to be expected Tojo would dwell on this in his speech, and those parts of it which reached this country contained no hints of trouble behind the scenes.

While Tojo promised victory in general terms, he made no specific promise of new conquests. The general picture he seemed to be giving his people was of a Japan that has won what she wants and has the resources to stand off the great powers bent on depriving her of the fruits of her aggressions.

Flynn Back on Stand, Denies Betty's Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28 (AP)—Handsome Errol Flynn was called back to the witness stand today to deny that he was intimate with 17-year-old Betty Hansen, after solemnly denying violating 16-year-old Peggy La Rue Satterlee.

1ST SAGANSKY TRIAL MAY BE IN MIDDLESEX

That Dr. Harry "Doc Jasper" Saganaky, numbers pool king, may go on trial first in Middlesex County instead of Suffolk Superior Court appeared a growing possibility today.

This development was seen after his attorneys, Max Ulin and Michael Garcia, along with counsel for at least eight more of the 30 defendants indicted on "fictitious lottery" charges in Suffolk county, asserted they would challenge the validity of the accusations.

Contending that the 100-year-old statute is not constitutional, legal experts said they were prepared to test the validity of the indictments by appeals to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary. Conceivably, such moves could delay the trials indefinitely.

ACCUSED OF BRIBES

In contrast, the Middlesex County indictment against Saganaky accuses him of attempting to bribe Malden city officials. His Middlesex Superior Court trial is tentatively scheduled for next Monday, Feb. 1, but Dist. Atty. Bradford has indicated he wishes the case to start on the following Monday, Feb. 8.

The charges in either case can result in State Prison sentences if the defendant is convicted.

Before Superior Judge William C. Giles in Middlesex court today, Atty. James M. Graham, for Saganaky, and Atty. John C. Johnston, for James J. Carrigan, Jr., Malden filling station proprietor, received permission to file a motion for further particulars in the Malden bribery cases.

Judge Giles, after a conference at the bench, taken part in by Asst. Dist. Atty. Albert Wunderly, said he would give a decision later on the motion itself.

Defense counsel said Dist. Atty. Bradford has declined, thus far in his answers to interrogatories, to specify any particular times and places when the alleged bribery offenses were committed.

ARRAIGN DEFENDANT

As the upper court proceedings were going on, Nicholas Darvirris, 59, of Austin st., Cambridge, latest to be picked up in the anti-gambling drive, was being arraigned in East Cambridge district court.

Through counsel, he asked and was permitted a postponement until tomorrow, so that he might decide whether to accept or appeal the fines and sentences.

Observing in the courtroom for the Middlesex County prosecutor was Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony Di Cicco.

ALLIES IN NEW AFRICA PARLEY

By ROGER GREENE

Associated Press War Editor

A climatic Allied offensive in North Africa, preluding actual invasion of Europe, was foreshadowed today with disclosure that top military leaders of the United States and Great Britain have held a secret 48-hour war council at Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

At the same time, a Berlin military spokesman declared Gen. Eisenhower's American expeditionary forces in Tunisia were "planning a major offensive" and a Vichy broadcast said American troops originally concentrated 150 miles southwest of Tunis had opened the attack.

Axis reports suggested an American attempt to drive a wedge between the converging armies of Marshal Rommel and Col.-Gen. Jürgen von Arnim in central Tunisia.

The secret was conclave followed

The dapper screen star, testifying at his trial on statutory charges, yesterday told the jury and a breathless roomful of Flynn fans it was not true that he was guilty of misconduct with Miss Satterlee aboard his yacht off Catalina Island.

Flynn declared he went to bed in his own quarters soon after the party of four had returned from shore, denying he went to her cabin.

Defense attorney Jerry Giesler asked: "Did she say 'I am J. B.—jail bait' and did you say you would be willing to take your chances on that?"

"I said no such thing then or any other time."

On the return trip next day—when, Miss Satterlee testified, Flynn invited her below deck to see the moon through a porthole, and then again attacked her—Flynn said he was away from the wheel only once or twice. These absences, he said, were only for about five minutes each.

"FOUND HER IN TEARS"
"Did you at any time on the way back from Catalina have relations with Miss Satterlee?" his attorney asked.

"No, I didn't," Flynn replied. Miss Satterlee had been invited on the cruise," Flynn said, to be photographed with him in fishing pictures for a national magazine. Giving his version of the conversation in which Miss Satterlee said he invited her below deck, Flynn testified:

"I went up to the shrouds where Peggy Satterlee had been about 10 minutes. I could see she was crying."

"I said: 'What's the matter?' She said: 'I hate to go home. I haven't a job. We're alone and can't pay the rent.'"

HITLER GIVES UP ARMY RULE IN FRANTIC PLAN TO STOP REDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Radio Maroc, in a broadcast recorded today by the U. S. Foreign Broadcast Intelligence Service, quoted a Swedish newspaper report that Adolf Hitler had decided to give up personal direction of the German armies temporarily to the general staff.

The general staff, it said, was reported to have drafted plans for an eastern front withdrawal to a new line.

The Maroc broadcast, in French to France and the empire, was recorded as saying:

"According to the Swedish paper, Nya Dagligt Allehanda, Hitler is said to have decided to hand over the conduct of military operations, temporarily, to the general staff, which is reported to have drawn up a plan by which the Axis armies would withdraw and hold a new line from Kursk to Kharkov and from Dnepropetrovsk to Sevastopol and the Crimea."

"But military circles consider these steps have been taken too late to have any effect whatever on the development of the situation."

The Murder in Lower 13

DINER COOK GIVES STORY OF KILLING

ALBANY, Ore., Jan. 28 (AP)—A first degree murder charge which authorities said was based on circumstantial evidence and a reported confession, has been brought against a dining car cook in the slaying of a Navy bride aboard a California bound passenger train last Saturday.

Dist. Atty. Harlow Weinrick filed the charge in justice court yesterday, naming Robert Folkes, 20, Los Angeles, second cook aboard a unit of the Southern Pacific's West Coast Limited, as defendant. He is held in Los Angeles, where, Weinrick was informed, he made a statement admitting the killing.

The charge against Folkes constituted the first important development in the fantastic case since the morning, five days ago, when the body of Mrs. Martha Virginia James, 21, of Norfolk, Va., was found in the aisle of a sleeping car on the speeding train.

The comely young woman, four months' bride of another Virginian, Ensign Richard F. James, had been slashed across the throat as she lay in lower berth 13 of sleeper D.

$1000 FOR MURDER?

In Los Angeles Detective Capt. Verne Rasmussen said Folkes admitted the killing, saying he had stabbed Mrs. James with a sharp boning knife at the instigation of another unidentified man.

Rasmussen said the admission was contained in a signed statement which the cook made after first giving several conflicting versions of his actions on the night of the killing, later beginning a confession, contradicting it and eventually repudiating it.

"There is now no doubt whatever in our minds that Folkes is the slayer," the detective declared.

Rasmussen said Folkes' statement told of a deal made with a man on the train who assertedly informed the cook that he had to get Mrs. James "out of the way" and offered him $1000 to "do the job."

Folkes said the man first asserted he was Mrs. James' husband, Rasmussen reported, but later the Negro cook referred to him only as "the other man." Ensign James was not on the train with his wife.

SAYS KILLER SANE

The detective quoted Folkes as stating he didn't get any money from the man, but that he entered Mrs. James' berth, straddled the upper portion of her body and stabbed her with the knife.

Before Folkes signed the statement, Rasmussen said, psychiatrist, Dr. Paul De River, was called in to examine the Negro. Dr. De River pronounced him "sane but of the emotional braggart, exhibitionist type."

Cook Held as Her Killer

Testimony tending to associate Folkes with the crime was given by Harold Wilson; a Marine Corps private, who occupied the berth above Mrs. James. Wilson told investigators he saw a man emerge from lower 13 at the moment of the slaying and chased after him through the train.

VISITED CAR 3 TIMES

In the gallery of the diner, one car back, he found a cook, Wilson related. Weinrick said this man has been identified as Folkes.

Wilson told the district attorney, Weinrick said, the cook was "sweating and breathing hard. I didn't think much of it at the time but later I got to wondering. The galley was not warm."

Wilson is being detained as a material witness because, the district attorney said, "he simply has too much vital testimony for us to release him." John Funches, 30, a dining car waiter who had been held as a material witness, was released last night.

4 HANFSTAENGL WORKING FOR U. S.

Copyright, 1943, by International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (INS)—Dr. Ernst ("Putzi") Hanfstaengl, for 14 years one of Hitler's closest aides, has been secretly released from a Canadian internment camp and is now working in Washington as a confidential adviser to the American government on anti-Nazi phases of the war effort.

The Harvard-educated former foreign press chief of the Nazi party, who used to soothe Der Fuehrer's jangled nerves by playing his favorite opera tunes on the piano, but escaped from the Gestapo's clutches to London in 1937, has been in this country for about six months, it was Dr. Hanfstaengl authoritatively disclosed to International News Service.

His release from the Canadian internment camp, to which the former Nazi luminary was sent from London after the outbreak of the war, was obtained through close co-operation between the British and American governments.

INTERPRETS PROPAGANDA

With full knowledge of the Office of War Information though, according to OWI, not directly in its employ, he has been interpreting and analyzing Nazi propaganda, communiques, speeches, and newspaper articles, as well as advising the American authorities on best methods of conveying United Nations' information to the German people.

Hanfstaengl, who is 56, a towering man six feet seven inches tall, has a son, Egon, who also attended Harvard and is now serving in the United States Army. Hanfstaengl's mother was an American, daughter of Gen. John Sedgwick, who led Connecticut troops at Gettysburg during the Civil War.

His wife, from whom he has been divorced for several years, is an American citizen, the former Helen Niemeyer of New York.

CHECKUP MADE

The former Nazi party official is understood to have approached the American authorities immediately after the United States entered the war with an offer to contribute his knowledge of Nazi Germany to the Allied cause.

A careful checkup was made on the sincerity of his offer. After the arrangements had been completed, he was brought to Washington secretly.

Hanfstaengl has acted as adviser in connection with propaganda broadcasts beamed to Germany; studies and analysis of German propaganda and developments of various techniques for getting the war aims of the United Nations across to the German people themselves.

Hanfstaengl probably was the most extensively educated official in the Nazi party. Following his graduation from Harvard, where he got the nickname "Putzi," in 1909, he studied abroad in Munich, Vienna and Rome. He returned to New York in 1911 to manage the American branch of his father's art firm and remained in this country for ten years.

At the end of World War I, Hanfstaengl went back to Germany and joined the Hitler movement in 1923. He became one of Hitler's closest confidential advisers and aides. For participation in the abortive and unsuccessful Nazi putsch of that period he was exiled to Austria during 1924. But when Hitler finally came into power he rewarded Hanfstaengl by making him his chief of foreign press in charge of propaganda.

Hanfstaengl's Harvard classmates were outright indignant when in 1934 the Nazi bigwig offered his alma mater a $1000 scholarship to send a Harvard student to Germany "for study." The offer was refused.

Undaunted, Hanfstaengl came over to the United States personally a few months later to attend the 25th reunion of his Harvard class at Cambridge, Mass.

He was greeted both in New York, where he landed, and in Cambridge with violent anti-Nazi demonstrations and he finally left for Germany again with shouts of "Down With Hitler!" ringing in his ears.

Back in Germany, "Putzi" began to see why Americans despised the Nazi regime, and he began to express open opposition to Nazi excesses and persecutions.

THINGS GOT HOT

In 1937 things began to get hot for him. The Gestapo was on his trail and he learned that his unofficial death warrant had already been signed and sealed. He discovered that a detachment of the Hitler Elite Guards had been assigned to take him "for a ride."

2 MEDFORD SCHOOLS CLOSE AS OIL CRISIS GROWS WORSE

Medford High School and the Osgood School in Medford were forced to close today as the fuel oil situation grew steadily worse.

Bay State Flier Wins Air Cross

First Lieut. Arthur L. Burger of Trafton rd., Springfield, was one of seven officers of the Army air forces awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross today "for extraordinary achievement." The Associated Press reported from Allied headquarters in Australia. While flying on more than 50 combat missions from July to November, Lieut. Burger "demonstrated outstanding flying ability throughout these operations," the citation said.

Earlier this month, Lieut. Burger was awarded the silver star decoration for gallantry in action against the Japs. He shot down a Zero when 23 Japanese planes attacked him during a patrol mission.

ALL OVER NOW—Reconciliation attempts failing, screen beauty Karen Morley filed suit for divorce against Director Charles Vidor in Hollywood today. She charged cruelty and seeks custody of their son, Michael, 9.

Claims by Washington oil executives that they have "licked" the problem threatened to cause a controversy between federal and local fuel administrators and prompted Col. Thomas F. Sullivan, state conservator, to remark that "the only one who's been licked is the consumer."

Another example of the gravity of the shortage was the assertion by Acting Mayor Joseph J. Sweeney of Lowell that range oil supplies in his city may be gone by tonight, with large evacuations of families a definite possibility.

PREPARE TO MOVE

After making new appeals to the State House and to Washington for emergency assistance, he ordered Lowell civilian defense authorities to prepare for moving families from cold homes.

The 2100 Medford High School students will have a forced vacation of nearly a month, while the school is being converted from oil heat to coal.

Supt. of Schools J. Stevens Kadesch said the spring vacation will be eliminated and school extended into June, to make up the lost time. The high school's vacation division will remain open to continue teaching students and adults who are preparing for war jobs.

Two hundred elementary and junior high students of Medford's Osgood School will report tomorrow to be assigned to classes in other school buildings. The school will remain closed indefinitely, Kadesch said.

ISSUES ULTIMATUM

On learning of the plight of her home city of Lowell, Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers issued a flat ultimatum to the OPA and Petroleum Administration for War to "clean up the oil situation within three days."

Otherwise, she declared, she will demand that the Army take over the entire job of administering fuel.

Sullivan, returning from an emergency meeting in Baltimore, announced he had been informed that there was no longer any question of a coal shortage, but said that the oil situation remained "troublesome."

GUSTIN JAILED IN NEW RACKET

Stephen Wallace, alias Steve Gustin, once the leader of a South Boston hoodlum gang, is in Salem House of Correction while police are searching for a companion in connection with a new racket to mulct New England manufacturing concerns of contributions to a spurious union fund.

Gustin, arraigned in Newburyport district court on charges of conspiracy to steal, pleaded not guilty. He went to jail in lieu of $800 bail. His case was continued until Saturday.

According to police, Gustin and his companion said they were members of a labor union soliciting contributions for a special fund from New England business concerns. The fund was to be used to educate union members, the business officials were told, for work in the public relations department of the union.

State Detective Richard Griffin, aided in the arrest by Henry Fendern of the Newburyport police, told the court the Towle Mfg. Co. of Newburyport, silversmiths, and a Newburyport laundry concern were victimized.

NEWTON GIRL, 4 OTHERS IN N.E. WINNERS OF CARNEGIE MEDAL

Ten-year-old Carol Nesson of Newton Center and four other New Englanders today were receiving praise and congratulations on being awarded the bronze medal of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for heroism in saving lives.

Carol helped save four-year-old Robert B. Tucker from drowning at North Weymouth last Aug. 16, after the boy had fallen from a rowboat into the Fore river. She plunged into the water and pulled him to safety, despite his strangle hold.

William J. Skayhan, 48, of Randolph, a letter carrier, saved an unidentified boy of about nine from death in a Boston subway station last July. The boy fell into the pit, but Skayhan leaped in front of an advancing train and thrust the lad to safety on the platform.

Benjamin White of Lynn and William M. Falasca, a Coast Guard attached to the Salem air base, rescued Nellie K. Wells, 58, from drowning at Lynn last July 22, after the woman fell into the surf and was dragged toward sea by the undertow.

Edward M. Ellis, 21, a student, swam 160 feet through the surf of York Beach, Me., to save the life of Rene A. Boucher, 35.

Flynn on Stand Denies Charge

—You'll probably get over those troubles if that's all you're crying for. Why don't you go back to your mother and father? She said: 'I hate them—they've never done anything for me.' I took her to the cockpit, and took over the wheel."

Concerning what was said when the vessel docked at Wilmington, Flynn went on:

"During the saying of a general goodbye, I told Miss Satterlee: 'I hope you've had a good time.' She said: 'I've never had a better time in my life—it's seemed like a dream.'"

Miss Satterlee had testified that when Flynn asked her if she had a good time on the cruise she replied, "no."

Flynn then related a telephone conversation he said he had with Miss Satterlee the day after the cruise.

"I said: 'Look, I might just as well come to the point, Peggy, right away. I have just been told by my business manager that you have been down to the district attorney's office and made a complaint about me that you have been mistreated. Why did you go down there? You know you were treated very decently aboard the boat.'"

"She said: 'You will find out.' I said: 'Let me talk to your mother.' She said: 'My mother is not here.' I said: 'Let me talk to your father.' She said: 'He is not here, either.'"

"I asked: 'Can't you tell me anything about this? What's the idea?' She said: 'You will find out.'"

The actor denied that he told anyone on the cruise, "This girl attacked me last night," or said, "She bit or kicked me."

Earlier, Jean Longworth, attractive blonde dancer, was recalled by the prosecution. She had testified, in effect, that Miss Satterlee had declared Flynn had not been intimate with her.

The prosecution attempted to show enmity had arisen between the two girls because of a report that Miss Satterlee had said Miss Longworth's mother had obtained a doctor to perform an illegal operation upon Miss Satterlee.

The story "used" her, Miss Longworth said.

COMMANDER RENEWS HOPE LOST NEWTON FLIER IS ALIVE

The belief that Lieut. Charles Larry Schwimmer, crack Newton Army flier, missing in action in the South Pacific, is a Jap prisoner was expressed today by his commanding officer, Maj. E. G. Hillery, who wrote:

"Larry was too good a fighter to be shot down by a Jap Zero."

The ray of hope was contained in a letter to Larry's younger brother, Lieut. Daniel B. Schwimmer. Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Schwimmer of Ward st., Newton Center.

"Larry may have made a forced landing up the coast from Lae during a bombing raid," Maj. Hillery wrote.

"The natives around Lae, although friendly to Americans and Australians, are forced to turn in prisoners to the Japs or have their families killed.

"So there is a fifty-fifty chance that Larry is a prisoner. I know that Larry, if he hadn't been caught by weather, would not have been shot down."

Maj. Hillery related that Larry was lost in a storm from a bombing flight over Lae led by the late Lieut.-Col. Boyd D. "Buzz" Wagner, the flier who first attained fame in the Philippines and later in the South Pacific. The letter added:

"The flight that Larry was in ran into fog on the opposite of Lae, where they were trying to approach from the north and all were flying on instruments. Only the flight leader of the four ships returned."

Maj. Hillery recalled that Larry joined his outfit from training school and "he turned out to be one of the best-liked fellows in the organization."

"After seven years in the Air Corps, I've seen very few pilots as good as he was," the officer stated. Larry gained fame as a member of the "fighting four" who were inflicting considerable damage on Jap bases. He was reported missing last June. He was graduated from the Uni-

Uniform Raid Signals Worked Out for State

Executives of state and local public safety committees met today to revise Massachusetts air raid rules in conformity with new and simplified regulations announced by the Army.

Changes in the method of sounding air raid alarms are the most important points in the Army's rules, which become effective Feb. 17.

The audible "All Clear" signal is eliminated under the new orders, but local defense organizations are granted permission to sound some sort of "All Clear" whistle provided it does not resemble the "Blue" and "Red" signals of an alert or raid.

When an air raid test is staged in the future the Army decrees that the following procedure be followed:

1—"Blue" alert signal of one long, steady blast, indicating enemy planes are approaching. Homes and business quarters black out, civilian defense volunteers mobilize, but motor traffic and pedestrians may proceed with caution. In case of immediate peril the blue may be skipped.

2—"Red" raid signal of short blasts, or a rising and falling tone on sirens means planes are overhead. The public must take to shelters. All remaining lights extinguished, except for a few authorized emergency lights.

3—"Blue" alert signal will always follow the "Red." Buildings remain blacked out, but traffic may move again.

Normal "all clear" conditions will be signalized by the turning on of street lights and by broadcasts from certain radio stations permitted to remain on the air to broadcast official bulletins during emergency periods.

Will You be a hero to him?

YOU may not recognize this boy who was blasted from his ship by an Axis sub—but he's no stranger.

You've seen him in the newsreels.

Read about him in the newspapers.

Heard about him on the radio.

To him, the war is more than table-talk at home. It's a ghastly hell of deadly torpedoes and screaming bombs. But until one comes along "with his name on it," he'll keep fighting to settle the score with a Nazi or take one last crack at a Jap.

Wouldn't you like to know that a few dollars you had chipped in had enabled the USO to add a bit of silver lining to his dark clouds of war? Or helped the War Prisoners Aid bring cheer to a buddy behind barbed wire?

Your dollars can do that—and more—if you give enough soon enough to the United War Fund.

Those dollars will also help to build that better world for which he's fighting. They will bring food, shelter and clothing to our helpless Allies in the conquered countries ... provide medical aid to our sick at home ... care for our aged ... enable visiting nurses, clinics, youth and welfare agencies to carry on.

The need is greatest now, so don't let it be said that you gave too little too late.

Give enough.. soon enough!

U. S. AIR ATTACK ON GERMANY PRESAGES NEW PLANE BLITZ

AT A UNITED STATES BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 28 (AP)—The first bombing of Germany by the United States Army air forces reflects the growing strength of the American air arm in Britain and presages a continuing series of attacks against the heart of the dwindling Nazi empire.

UNREST GROWS IN BULGARIA

ANKARA, Turkey (Jan. 27 (delayed) (AP)—Travelers returning to Turkey from Bulgaria report general unrest and even riots were precipitated after Germany made new demands on the Bulgarians shortly after the beginning of the year, chiefly for help against Russia.

The reports said Bulgaria might be forced to contribute perhaps 10 divisions to Hitler's armies, but the Germans faced trouble if they insisted on using Bulgars in Russia.

FIERCEST SENEGALESE QUIT DAKAR TO JOIN ALLIED ARMIES

By JOSEPH MORTON

DAKAR, French West Africa (Delayed) (AP)—The first big convoy of French Senegalese soldiers, fiercest of all native African fighters, has sailed from Dakar to reinforce Allied forces in Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia.

These red-fuzzed Colonials, most of them six feet or taller, marched to their ships with flags flying and hands playing, all obviously eager for action. They bore one of the most powerful of all military weapons—a bitter hatred of the enemy.

Distinguished for gallant service in France in 1914-18 and in 1940, The Senegalese have been known as soldiers unable to forgive or forget. They have been biding their time, nursing memories of losses in previous battles, of mistreatment as prisoners and of exploitation at Germany's hands.

The man who directed their training, Gen. Pierre M. Tristani, selected the vanguard from more than 60,000 men.

Those sent north, he believes, have no equal in bayonet fighting. Gen. Tristani said they were selected from French Africa's most

The pilots, bombardiers and the rest of the crews participating in the raid by Flying Fortresses and Liberators assayed the results today with the declaration that they would do better and the German defenses did not do so well.

The unexpected weakness of anti-aircraft and fighter plane defense over Wilhelmshaven indicates that the Germans have not enough first-class aerial talent to cover all vulnerable points, it was agreed here.

COLD AND CLOUDY

Cold and cloudy conditions over the targets there and at Emden limited the high altitude daylight precision bombing which is an American specialty, but the execution of yesterday's raid was held to indicate that American bombers are gaining skill in coping with conditions less than favorable.

Col. Curtis Lemay of Columbus, O., the commander of one group of bombers, said the raid went "pretty well except that it was rather dull compared with some we've had."

Sergt. C. E. Chezem, of Tulsa, Okla., a waist gunner of the "Gopher," one of the Fortresses, said that the pilots of the German fighters which sought to intercept them appeared to be "just green—they attacked only the rear planes."

Men of another Fortress named "Garter and His Pills," said that the German fighter pilots "were just primary and basic training fellows, they didn't know which way to kick the rudder."

BEAR ODD NAMES

Some of the other bombers that went out on the raid—only three failed to return—bore such names as "Devil's Playmate," piloted by Lt. I. D. Benson of Anguilla, Miss.; "Royal Flush," piloted by Lt. Harold Beasley of Andalusia, La.; "Connecticut Yankee," piloted by Lt. James Verinis of New Haven, Ct.; "Jack the Ripper," piloted by Capt. William Crumm of Scarsdale, N. Y.; and "Kickapoo," piloted by Capt. John W. Eames of Shevport, La.

There was no official estimate of German losses but crews of several planes said they were sure they got their attackers.

While the American planes were thus engaged, Mosquito bombers of the RAF subjected the Danish capital of Copenhagen to its first bombing, striking at factories.

The previous night British bombers had raided the German submarine base at Lorient and the port of Bordeaux in Occupied France.

Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, head ings was acclaimed by Air Chief of the RAF bomber command, as the beginning of a campaign "to bust Germany wide open."

BACKS UP PARLEY

Psychologically the raids gave weight to the historic parley between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca, where they and their military leaders laid plans for "more intense prosecution of the war by land, sea and air."

Berlin reported that the RAF attack last night was directed against the north German coastal area and said eight of the raiders were shot down.

The same area was given a heavy pounding yesterday as swarms of United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators hammered the naval base at Wilhelmshaven and related industries at nearby Emden.

RAID ON COPENHAGEN

While the American planes were thus engaged, Mosquito bombers of the RAF subjected the Danish capital of Copenhagen to its first bombing, striking at factories.

The previous night British bombers had raided the German submarine base at Lorient and the port of Bordeaux in Occupied France.

Observers said the stepped-up Allied offensive, with the RAF carrying the war to Germany by night and the U. S. Army Air Force by day, would bring home to the German people the fact that they no longer controlled the air.

It was expected that the raids on Europe by British-based bombers soon would be supplemented by air attacks from newly-won Allied bases in North Africa.

The first all-American raid against Germany proper yesterday involved a round-trip flight of some 800 miles for the Flying Fortresses which struck at Wilhelmshaven.

Copenhagen Bombing Toll 5 Dead, 50 Hurt

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 28 (AP)—At least five persons were killed and 50 were injured yesterday in the RAF's bombing of Copenhagen, reports from Denmark said today. It was feared a cleanup of the ruins would disclose an even greater death toll.

Damage in the bombed section necessitated removal of some 7000 persons to motion picture theaters, churches and other buildings for shelter overnight.

The alarm came at 3 p. m. when Copenhagen workers were on their way home and the city was held under alert until 10:30 p. m.

NAZIS SAY REDS TRICK THEM

Change Town Names, Lay Secret Railroads

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 28 (AP)—The German press is attempting to explain defeats on the Soviet front by declaring the Russians tricked them, a Swedish correspondent reported today.

Russia's concealment of her real military power and skill in camouflage resulted in surprises for the Germans even during the second year of the campaign, the press complained.

The Russians were said to have changed the names of many places, built new towns whose existence was kept secret and laid new railways which were not shown on any maps available to the Germans.

ALLIES IN NEW AFRICA PARLEY

on the heels of President Roosevelt's recent "maste plan" conference with Prime Minister Churchill.

The latest meeting was attended for the United States by Gen. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Admiral King, commander-in-chief of the Navy; Lieut.-Gen. Arnold, commander-in-chief of Army Air Forces, and other high officers.

Britain was represented by Field Marshal Dill, head of the British joint staff mission in Washington; Admiral Pound, first sea lord; Gen. Alexander, commander-in-chief in the Middle East; Vice-Admiral Mountbatten, chief of command operations (Commandos) and others.

All the conferences centered around Gen. Eisenhower. This combined with the presence of Gen. Alexander was taken as an indication the Allies are planning a union of all forces in the Mediterranean into one great theater with a co-ordinate command.

NEW GUINEA, Jan. 27 (Delayed) (AP)—Jap bombers raiding Port Moresby early today met night interception for the first time in 103 attacks on the New Guinea capital.

The three raiders dropped a number of bombs, causing some damage but inflicting no casualties. One bomber was hit by an American night fighter and possibly failed to reach its base.

JAPS MASSING OFF AUSTRALIA

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 28 (AP)—Belief that Japan is preparing a major military operation against northern Australia was expressed today in Australian government quarters.

Government informants, whose identity cannot be disclosed further, said information had been received that the Japanese were increasing their concentrations of troops and shipping in areas from which northern Australia would be threatened.

KISKA JAPS RENEW RAIDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Navy announced today that two Japanese float planes attacked but failed to damage U. S. ships west of American positions in the Aleutian Islands.

It was the first such attack in the Aleutians in months. The Jap planes probably were operating out of Kiska.

The communique also reported that troops on Guadalcanal island continued to advance to the west, killing 40 Japs and taking five prisoners.

12 YANKS MAY 'ZOOPE' COFFEE, BUT MOSLEM DATES ARE OUT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—American soldiers sent to Egypt will find it's perfectly proper to "zoop" their coffee, and in either Egypt or Iran, to avoid offending their hosts, they should drink three cups of coffee but refuse a fourth.

Those are some of the hints in the Army's newest guidebooks which the War Department disclosed today had been issued to troops in Iran, Egypt and New Caledonia.

The books emphasized the key to those countries is simple courtesy, restrained friendliness and absolute respect for national customs. They counsel soldiers to say out of arguments on religion and politics, especially in Iran and Egypt, and never to brag about the way things are done in the United States.

The guides contain maps, lists of foreign words, sketches of history and explanations that American troops are in Iran to protect a United Nations' source of oil; in Egypt to insure control of the Mediterranean and the Suez Canal, and in New Caledonia to guard the lifeline to Australia.

The Egyptian book tells the romantically-inclined soldier there that a date is simply something that grows on trees. Never speak to or make passes at Moslem women in Egypt. And that goes double for the Iraqi women.

If the Egyptian host offers a soldier a cup of very hot syrupy coffee, "it is quite Emily Post to inhale with a zooping effect."

"This indicates you're enjoying it—and helps cool it off," explains the guide.

In both Iran and Egypt, the soldiers are advised to use a little old-fashioned American horse trading in making any purchase at markets. This, the books explain, is because the first price quoted is usually three times what the merchant expects to receive.

In New Caledonia, the soldiers are told, the swimming is fine but watch out for man-eating sharks at some beaches. Fishing is tops and the hunting is a nimrod's dream.

"But, for safety's sake," the Caledonia book says, "it is necessary to enforce a local rule that door shall not be shot in camp."

ANXIOUS TO HELP—As officers of the Bethlehem-Hingham Shipyard's "Guild of the Bell and Cap," Treasurer Ruth White, Secretary Mary F. Leonard and Asst. Secretary Alma Beal (l. to r.), are making plans for the entertainment of service men and war workers. Their society boasts an orchestra-band, choral group and dramatic club.

MORE WAACS IN AFRICA

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 28 (INS)—Full of pep, a detachment of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps has arrived in North Africa for duty at Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters.

These WAACS came directly from America in a convoy. A small group had arrived previously from England.

On the voyage the girl soldiers remained calm as destroyers tossed depth charges at a U-boat.

Inez Robb, International News Service correspondent and the first woman writer accredited by the Army, accompanied the WAAC contingent which is under command of Capt. Frances K. Marquis, 46, wife of a New York city business man.

The WAAC unit has been assigned to duty as secretaries, telephone operators and chauffeurs.

COCOANUT GROVE FIRE WIDOW HONEYMOONS WITH NEW MATE

Widowed by the death of her husband, John Eugene Murphy, 26, of Framingham, in the Coconut Grove disaster, the former Charlotte Harney of Framingham is now the bride of George B. Behnke, 34, New York insurance broker, and is on a honeymoon with him in the West.

Their marriage took place in Reno a few hours after Behnke had been divorced from Elizabeth T. Behnke of New York city, whom he married in Berlin, Germany, April 17, 1931.

According to Mrs. John A. Murphy, mother of the Grove victim, her son's wife was in Reno at the time he met his death. She arrived from the West by plane on Nov. 30, too late to attend the funeral.

Later, the younger Mrs. Murphy tried unsuccessfully in Middlesex probate court to obtain custody of her 14-month-old daughter, Linda Ann, and to be named administratrix of her husband's estate. The court entrusted these responsibilities instead to Atty. John Sheehan of Framingham, counsel for the deceased husband's parents.

The 24-year-old widow then returned to Reno. Behnke had made her acquaintance while he was employed in Framingham.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, JAN. 29, 1943

...and am I glad
there's a Good Housekeeping

... Doing without this, substituting that, cutting down on the other... I'm keeping house in a bewildering new world these days. And if I'm to do a good job of it, I need all the help I can get. The Good Housekeeping Institute, bless it, is a tower of strength.

February's INSTITUTE, edited by Katharine Fisher, includes:

- "I've Got My First Job—and I Still Get the Meals"
- "Rationing by Points"
- "We Know How to Get the Most Coffee from a Pound"
- "Don't Forget These Meats"
- "Little Sugar—Much Dessert"
- "Anyone Can Make Fish Cakes"

... I've nowhere near as much time for clothes; but I flatter myself you'd never guess it. How a working woman can be a smart woman is a secret I've learned from Good Housekeeping's fashion pages.

February FASHIONS, edited by Martha Stout, include:

- GH No. 20 (A Wonderful Wool Suit to Wear for Years)
- "Now You Are on Your Own Two Feet"
- "And Walking Shoes are What You'll Need"
- "Take Good Care to Have Them Shine"
- "Take Time To Buy Your Shoes"
- "The Wrong Shoe Ruins the Effect"
- "Two Colors Are Better Than One"
- "Ruffles and Bows"
- "Stitching"

... Home and an easy chair look good these evenings; but I refuse to turn into a vegetable. So while I rest, I read the world's great writers in my Good Housekeeping.

February's FICTION includes:
NOVELS

- "The Debt" by Helen Hall
- "Without Roots" by Nella Gardner White

SHORT STORIES

- "Do This For Me, My Darling" by Katharine Ernst
- "Something Like a Dream" by Frederick Nobel
- "There Seems To Be a Letter" by F. Hugh Herbert
- "The Favorite Suit" by Alberta Pierson Hammond
- "The Trip Down" by Catherine Habbell

February's SPECIAL ARTICLES includes:

- "On Reading Mysteries" by Clifton Fadiman
- "The Luck of Johnny Mills" by Alexander Woolcott
- "On Not Visiting Places a Second Time" by Irvin Edman
- "Want to Save Your Teeth?" by Maxine Davis
- "To a Woman Whose Baby Was Never Born" by Margaret Lee Jenck
- "Twenty Years Ago" by Vernon Pope

... My dressing table mirror doesn't see as much of me as in the old days; but it tells me I'm as pretty as I ever was. One big reason why is Good Housekeeping's Beauty Clinic.

February's BEAUTY CLINIC, edited by Ruth Murrin, includes:

- "Fourteen Ways to Prolong Your Permanent"
- "Portrait of a Secretary"
- "What Attracted Me to Her"
- "In Hot Water All the Time—
And No Rubber Gloves"

... In spite of my hours away, our house is still a home. And I'm determined to keep it so... with the help of Good Housekeeping Studio.

February's STUDIO, edited by Dorothy Draper, includes:

- "Don't Throw It Away"
- "A Remnant and an Idea Made These"
- "Paint It!"
- "You Need Tables"
- "Do It Yourself!"

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (INS)—Predetermination of sex in lower life forms has been demonstrated in successful experiments on Drosophila melanogaster, a species of fly, the Journal of the American Medical Ass'n reported tonight.

"This startling discovery does not signify that it will be possible in the foreseeable future for parents to choose in advance the sex of their children," said the Journal.

"To the astonishment and possibly distress of some of those with preconceived ideas, human sex is determined by a particular gene or set of genes of the father rather than the mother. No longer may the wife be blamed for failure to produce the wished for son."

Hears Lecture on Hawaii

By BETTY ALDEN

WEALTHY AMERICAN families who live in Hawaii and love to ride horseback and play polo, owe the privilege of riding to the captain of a Boston sailing vessel who took the first horse to Hawaii in 1903.

This and other interesting anecdotes were revealed by Alice Cooper Bailey in her lecture on Hawaii at Mrs. William Dana Orcutt's Morning of Diversion in N. E. Mutual Hall yesterday. Also of interest was the revelation that Boston baked beans and brown bread are a traditional Saturday night dish of American families on the islands and that the sons of two prominent Hub families, Henry Pierce and James Hunnewell, were active in civic affairs in Honolulu.

Mrs. Theodore Pitman of Brookline came to the lecture wearing a famous necklace of small pearl shells which Queen Emma wore at the Court of Queen Victoria. Mr. Pitman, a noted sculptor, is lineal descendant of the noble chiefs and monarchs of ancient Hawaii. To set off the necklace Mrs. Pitman wore a simple black afternoon dress and her tiny black hat was adorned with scarlet feathers.

Among the hostesses were Mrs. Francis Flagg, whose black dress was trimmed with silver and topped by a black hat trimmed with red ostrich plumes; Mrs. Walter Atherton with a lavish mink stole around her shoulders; Mrs. Harold G. Tobey, Mrs. E. Atkin Baldwin, Mrs. Edward H. Talbot and Mrs. Percival Shepard.

FROM FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., comes a wire telling of the birth of a son to Lieut. and Mrs. Chandler Hovey, Jr., of Chestnut Hill. The infant's grandfather is Chandler Hovey, who used to skipper his own yacht in the famous America cup races, and his Dad is in the Navy, stationed in Florida.

Mrs. Hovey, Jr., is the former Nancy Blumer, daughter of the Thomas S. Blumers of Boston.

MRS. HORACE SOULE and Miss Bertha Vaughn joined forces today in entertaining their exclusive bridge playing friends at cocktails and luncheon at the Algonquin Club. Miss Vaughn belongs to the Colonial Dames and the Chilton Club.

Thousands Proclaim Wonder Bread Now Better Than Ever

Because It Slices Better
Because It Tastes Better
—Due To "Slo-Baking"

This is the bread you hear people raving about everywhere now — the new Wonder Bread. Now better than ever because: (1) It is easier to slice — the texture is tender and firm. (2) It tastes better — the flavor is richer.

Both improvements you can detect the minute you try it. AND both due to the famous method of "slo-baking" — Wonder Bread is baked 15% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

Doubly Fresh

You will find Wonder Bread is doubly fresh — fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it.

Fresh when you buy it because of better merchandising control — grocery everywhere can guarantee that the Wonder Bread you buy today is today's bread.

Fresh when you eat it because "slo-baked" for lasting freshness. And that's the quality you want for sandwiches.

18 Banner Year Seen By Mutual Savings

By MYRON F. CONVERSE

President of Worcester Five Cents Savings Bank

The opening of 1943 finds mutual savings banks of Massachusetts and the nation rendering their greatest measure of service to the public and the government. Never before in the 126 years of mutual institutions have they been so well equipped and their efforts so well integrated to carry forward the national effort.

To date our mutual institutions have distributed something more than $700,000,000 of War Savings Bonds, which approximates one-seventh of all such bonds absorbed by the public. Concentration upon payroll deduction plans, Victory Clubs and other methods of assisting the public to accumulate funds for support of the government, made this result possible.

Upon the whole, it seems that we are assured of an extremely active year in 1943, with industrial production and payrolls exceeding any previous conception.

BAY STATE RECAPTURES GLORY AS GREAT SHIPBUILDING CENTER

By ROY F. WILLIAMS

General Manager, Associated Industries of Massachusetts

Judging by its wartime achievement in shipbuilding Massachusetts is due to recapture her former glory as a maritime state when Boston Harbor was filled with steamers and sailing vessels and Boston was a great port of export and import. Today the Massachusetts coast is the Mecca of boatbuilders. All the shipyards are booked to capacity and the Army-Navy Pennant E is beginning to unfurl over the busy ways.

The year 1942 brought a great revival of this industry. The story cannot yet be told of records that in important respects equal if they do not surpass Henry Kaiser's phenomenal shipbuilding speed on the West Coast. The Boston Navy Yard will add a lustrous chapter to that story.

By the first of July in 1942, when the government had placed ship contracts for $9,070,814,000, Massachusetts builders had obtained $760,197,000 of it; but three months later when the national figure had risen to $15,214,973,000 the Massachusetts share was $1,343,338,000, an increase here of about 85 per cent during July, August and September. Authentic figures for the fourth quarter of 1942 are not yet available, but they will not be so impressive, because last August had an exceptionally high record.

EXCEL IN PLANE PARTS

On the face of available statistics Massachusetts loomed less imposing in the aircraft production field, with only $157,043,000 in contracts, an increase from $137,085,000 three months earlier and only $6,959,000 in January, 1942, but the real contribution of the Massachusetts industries in this field lies in the quality and importance of the aircraft parts they manufacture.

Production of many of these parts requires far greater mechanical skill and precision than the work at the assembly point where all the parts are brought together into the finished unit. There is no such assembly point in Massachusetts today, but the most important step toward the building of complete planes in this state was taken in 1942. It is the harbinger of a new industry for the Bay State.

ROY F. WILLIAMS
Hails Ship Building Revival

It is an acknowledged fact that what the Massachusetts industries contributed toward the development of the air force in 1942 actually controlled the mechanical efficiency of the bombers, fighters and chasers in air over the enemies. Without parts made here no plane could have lifted its wings, nor could any bomber have risen to the stratospheric heights from which it can drop its bombs unmolested by the enemy.

Another great achievement in 1942 was that of the machine tool industry, which actually is the key to all war industries. More Army-Navy E pennants were awarded in that field than in any other class of industries, which may be the natural result of the high and widespread development of tool-making in this state.

650,000 WORKERS

About 70 industrial establishments in Massachusetts received the Army-Navy E pennant during 1942, which was more than any other state received, with the sole exception of Ohio which passed Massachusetts by about 10 toward the end of the year. Besides the awards to private companies the pennant went also to the Boston Navy Yard, the Naval Ammunition Depot in Hingham, the Springfield Arsenal and the Watertown Arsenal. Maritime M pennants were awarded to two companies.

Massachusetts has about 9000 industrial establishments and in ordinary times they turn out approximately $3,000,000,000 annually in manufactured products, little of which is for military purposes. But in 1942 the industries that went into war work accepted contracts for about $3,000,000,000 on top of the $1,194,968,000 in hand from previous prime contracts placed here by the Army and Navy.

NEW INDUSTRIES

Toward the end of the year about 650,000 workers were employed in industrial establishments and they had steady employment at good pay, while two or three years ago only 460,674 had employment somewhat intermittently. At the time of the Pearl Harbor attack only 26 per cent of the workers were engaged on war work, but that percentage rose to 54.8 before the end of the year.

Despite the widespread campaigning to bring women into industry, Massachusetts industries, with some exceptions, have not become enthusiastic over the proposition.

Several new industries moved into Massachusetts in 1942.

WOMEN WAR WORKERS URGED TO INCREASE LIFE INSURANCE

Savings bank life insurance in force in Massachusetts on Jan. 1, 1943, totaled $224,500,000, a new high for the 35-year period the system has been in operation, it is reported by Clyde S. Casady, executive secretary of the Savings Bank Life Insurance Council. This total is represented by approximately 250,000 policies.

Calling attention to the continued favorable financial results during the latest fiscal year, Casady observed that dividend rates on savings bank life insurance policies during the twelve months beginning February 1, 1943, will be maintained on the same basic scale as for 1942 by 26 of the 30 issuing banks. After payment of all death claims and expenses, setting aside full legal reserves and providing for dividends, the system as a whole added to surplus approximately 13½ per cent of net profits for the year. For the system, surplus funds in excess of full legal reserves now amount to 8.48 per cent of the reserves.

WAR INSURANCE VITAL

Commenting on the experience of the savings banks during 1942, when a small increase was shown in the ratio of actual to expected rate of deaths, based on the standard mortality tables, Casady observed:

"In time of war, an increase in mortality rate is to be expected, even among civilians. We all face increased risks as a result of possible epidemics, industrial accidents, sabotage and food and fuel shortages which may affect health and safety regardless of sex, age, occupation or location. This means, of course, that there is now greater need for family protection by means of life insurance. Fortunately, increasing payrolls are making it possible for a larger number of families to have more life insurance protection."

NEEDED BY WOMEN

"As the savings bank life insurance system has always maintained, the family can best be protected by placing most of the insurance on the person who contributes most to its support."

"In these times, however, when so many women are being called into war production work, there is often more than one breadwinner whose earnings are important to the family. Since life insurance is primarily a means of replacing earning power, women should now have larger amounts of life insurance.

Banks Open Service in Rationing

"Ration banking," a new type of bank service for retailers and wholesalers dealing in rationed commodities, was inaugurated by Boston commercial banks yesterday as part of a nation-wide program.

A war service which the government urged banks to undertake, the new program will not affect housewives, motorists or other individual consumers. Under terms of the new system, banks will have nothing to do with fixing ration allotments or allowances or with the issue of ration coupons. These functions will continue under supervision of local ration boards.

The new service is intended primarily to accommodate dealers handling ration stamps and coupons, and will operate entirely separate from their other bank accounts. Under "ration banking" banks will perform a non-profit war service, relieving local ration boards of much detailed work.

Boston bankers said they expected that only retailers whose food sales in December, 1942, totaled more than $500 would be directed by OPA to open ration accounts.

New England Business Up

General business activity in New England rose to 140.9 per cent of normal in November, 1942, 5.1 points over the preceding month, according to the New England Council's revised index of business activity, released here. In November, 1941, the index stood at 135.4 per cent and reached its 1942 peak last June and July when it was 142.1 and 141.1 per cent.

Among the components, only employment has a steadily increasing record, reaching new highs monthly since January, 1941. Show production, considerably reduced in recent months, has recovered to more than double the low point reached last August.

Electric power production and cotton spindle activity moved upwards, although the latter figure is slightly below the figure of a year ago.

War Spurs Service of Co-op Bank

The value of the Massachusetts co-operative banks to the commonwealth which charters them cannot be estimated, nor can the number be told who have benefited by them in their plans for saving, nor for buying homes. The present 115,000 borrowers on home mortgages, and the 245,000 others who are shareholders and savers can constitute but a fraction of the total number that have been helped in these important matters since the first co-operative bank was founded in 1877.

Roughly, $60,000,000 a year is paid in to co-operative banks by shareholders as instalment payment on their shares and on account of home loans, and approximately that amount goes out in share withdrawals or share maturities and in loans on homes, which number at present 115,000 as has been said.

under in the state, month after month, the support thus given in the past to the construction of new homes and always to the acquisition of standing structures, is beyond description or calculation. Now, with new building practically stopped by war conditions, the co-operative banks continue to serve in the purchase of homes and in helping people to save for the future.

By GEORGE T. CHRISTOPHER

America's production worker in the war factory of today is proving himself to be a thinker as well as a doer. Stimulated by the war production drive of the management-labor type, the men and women working in our war plants deserve real credit for devoting all their energy and thinking to the job at hand while they are occupied in long shifts at machines or benches.

The outlook for the new year is that even greater quotas will be set, because proposals have been made for twice as many planes to be built. I am confident, however, given the materials and tools, our capacities will be equal to the task.

In the belief that the record of 1942 in the Packard plant is an illustration of what is happening wherever management and labor team together in a joint job, I should like to point out that in our "Work to Win!" program, organized with the co-operation of Packard Local 190, UAW-CIO, every worker in the plant, without exception, pledged 100 per cent of his efforts to improve production.

To date, they have made more than 12,500 helpful suggestions to our Management-Labor Committee.

GOVERNMENT FLAUNTS RULES IT LAID DOWN FOR CITIZENS

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

International News Service Economic Commentator

In the new double standard of morality, government officials set standards for citizens, which government agencies themselves are not expected to follow.

Of course, the prodding which the federal government has given to private business in the last 30 years since the income tax was introduced has enormously improved the quality of corporate accounting. Business men know vastly more about costs than they formerly did.

The SEC has carried the prodding further, and in M. S. Rukeyser's view, corporations whose securities are distributed among the investing public, submit audited accounts. Thus, it is now almost universal practice of business executives and managing directors of corporations to call in independent accountants to audit their figures and certify as to their authenticity.

DOUBLE STANDARD

But government departments do not similarly pursue these advanced accounting standards in their own receipts and expenditures, and some federally-owned corporations similarly flaunt the rules and regulations promulgated by the SEC for private business corporations.

In addition, there is no independent audit of the figures prepared by government agencies, commissions and bureaus concerning the total economic life of the people.

And yet propagandists seize upon the "official" figures and assume that they accurately photograph the realities. Thus one set of bad figures is compounded into errors appearing in textbooks, articles and in public discussions for a generation.

REVEALS ANOMALIES
In the spirit of David fighting against Goliath, Rufus S. Tucker, economic statistician, pits his personal skill at compiling and interpreting economic figures against that of vast hordes of statisticians on the government payroll. With the facilities at his disposal, he undertakes to audit published figures. The direction in which he moves is infinitely useful, but some foundation should augment the staff with which he works.

In a tripartite study, Tucker undertook to audit the figures on distribution of income in 1935-36 prepared by the National Resources Committee. These figures have been widely used to point out to groups who had been unaware of the fact that they were underprivileged, and likewise to demonstrate that the big income group was a less exclusive club than commonly supposed.

In his audit, Mr. Tucker appears to be unable to certify as to the accuracy and authenticity of the published figures.

On the contrary, he says: "The pattern of distribution of families published by the N. R. C. (National Resources Committee), although purporting to be based on the study of consumer purchases and the income tax statistics, differed widely from its sources and reflected more the result of various assumptions and conjectures. It greatly exaggerated the numbers over $7500 and under $1250. The tabulation here presented conforms more closely to the original data, but may still exaggerate the numbers of $7500 and under $1250 and especially under $500.

"The NRC pattern of distribution of single individuals in 1935-36 was based on inadequate data, largely collected in less prosperous years than 1935-36. Checked against federal and state income tax data, it appears to have overstated the numbers over $7500 and under $7500. The present tabulation perhaps still does so, but to a lesser extent.

Short of independently audited official statistics, there will be no protection against "political" statistics until the facts concerning the economic life of the people are set forth in terms of double entry national bookkeeping, which is a self-checking process.

Banks' Aid Is Vital to Recovery

"Our savings banks today have two duties," George P. Nason, president of the Charlestown Five Cents Savings Bank, stated, discussing the coming year in the banking world. "They must not only do their utmost to help win the war, but also they must help the public prepare to build a better future after the war is over."

"The first of these duties is one every American shares, and is one that needs little comment," Mr. Nason continued. "The savings banks are doing a tremendous job for the war effort—by selling war bonds, by encouraging the public to save for taxes, by urging citizens to save as a check on rising living costs and by investing a large part of the bank's own funds in government securities."

"The second duty—that of helping prepare for the future—is perhaps less fully recognized. But it is nevertheless a most important obligation of each savings bank. It is a duty because a savings bank is so largely a public trust, devoted to the good of all citizens."

Savings bank trustees and officers can't fail to foresee the possibilities of rebuilding our peacetime economy. If savings banks do a good job now, their depositors will have big reserves with which to purchase the homes and autos and radios they will surely need after the war. These purchases will start the wheels of America's peacetime industry, and this, in turn, can put our returning soldiers back to work.

"These reserves that will mean so much to America's future are being accumulated in savings bank accounts today," Nason continued. "They are, that is, in those banks which are doing an all-out job of telling their depositors the tremendous importance of saving now. Those banks are at one stroke performing both of their duties—helping win a quick American victory and helping the citizens to preserve the American way of life."

MUTUAL LIFE REACHES NEW HIGH IN 51 YEARS' SERVICE

The Boston Mutual Life Insurance Co., in achieving its 51st year of service to the people of New England, brought the total insurance on its books to a new high mark of over one hundred and eleven millions, with 332,681 policyholders.

In reviewing the record for 1942, Pres. Jay R. Benton said:

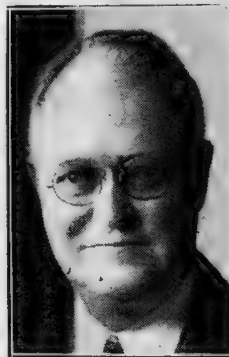

"Regardless of heavy drains upon manpower, the practical elimination from solicitation of hundreds of thousands in military service from this section, and the small quantities of gasoline available for transportation, the field force placed in excess of $7,800,000 of new business on the books of the company."

"Responding to the treasury's call for funds to aid in the war effort, the Boston Mutual placed over 96 per cent of its security purchases in United States government bonds. It bought approximately $7,755,000 of government obligations during the year, bringing the total government holdings to $11,016,087."

"The large total payments to policyholders and beneficiaries can also be considered another contribution to the war effort, these payments taking on even more than usual significance under the war economy. Total benefit payments for the year amounted to $1,620,439."

"The company maintained its good record of death claim service and, under the direction of the manager of the claim department, Merton L. Brown, in the case of an insured who lost life in the Coconut Grove disaster, the amount of the policy was paid in full within nine hours of the death being called to the attention of the company."

"With the increase of business on its books, with security, mortgage and policy loan investments of $16,467,075, with a cash balance in the banks at the end of the year of $346,327, and an excess of income over disbursements for the year of $1,716,936, these and other figures reflect steady progress and added strength."

Auto Firms Ride Storm

By DAVID E. CASTLES
President, National Automobile Dealers Ass'n

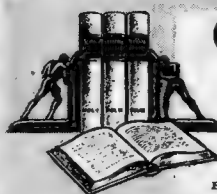

While the year 1942, at its beginning, promised to sound the death knell of the retail automobile industry in this country, fully four out of five dealers have been able to weather the storm.

This is not to say that the struggle for economic existence has not been tough for them. They have had to face terrible obstacles and win their fight the hard way. While I see trying times still ahead, the automobile dealers of the nation have proved their mettle and I have boundless faith in their ability to meet the problems of the coming year.

Looking back now over the hectic months that have passed since that memorable "freezing" order of Jan. 2, which in turn followed the complete cessation of automobile manufacturing, it seems little short of a miracle that such a vast majority of the dealers have been able to keep their doors open.

Many problems confront us today, the most acute of which appears to be the growing shortage of automobile mechanics.

Justice to dealers, the 27 million passenger cars and five million government trucks now on the highways in the war effort demands something be done.

Will Fight to Hold Hub Ports War Gain

By ANDREW F. LANE
General Manager, Boston Port Authority

The fact that the port of Boston is one of the major ports of the country is attested to by its activity during war-time. While what is going on in the port today cannot be written in detail, suffice it is to say the federal government has developed facilities of the highest order for the loading and discharging of ships.

These facilities, together with other modern facilities, when victory comes should be the scene of intense private activity. After this war there will be a scramble for post war commerce and these facilities will offer the finest type that will be available anywhere on the north Atlantic coast. Boston, therefore, has reason to be proud of her possessions. Its port has opportunity for development, but unless the New England region puts up a fight to get her share of that commerce she will lose all she has gained.

HAIL GREAT DAYS

Many people of New England are prone to think only of the glorious past when the port of Boston led all others in trade with the Indies, China and the Mediterranean; when this was the home port of the Cunard line, when great clipper ships were built and owned here. All of this, to be sure, is a priceless heritage and a monument, as it were, to the able pioneer spirit of our forefathers.

There is no doubt that if through the years since that time, the generations that followed had kept the maritime industry as a major effort the port would have prospered to the highest degree. Men and capital sought development of other industry, moreover, local ownership of steamship companies, with a few important exceptions, disappeared and the port as a consequence suffered.

Despite this local apathy the

J. N. Levens, chairman of Boston Conference of Steamship Operators and Contracting Stevedores, at left, and Thomas L. Locke, insurance engineering manager, discuss problems of safety that involves the retention of the wartime gains of the port of Boston at a recent conference.

port never ceased to be great. If however it had not been for a small group of loyal supporters the port would have completely decayed. Just prior to the war approximately 17 million tons of cargo per annum were handled through Boston and in the years 1929-1937 the average offshore yearly passenger business in round numbers was 67,000. This latter figure does not take into account of course the large coast-wise passenger business handled by the Eastern, Merchant and Miners and Savannah Lines. These facts speak for the port's important position.

ALL OUT FOR WAR

Inevitably the demands of the war overshadowed the port in 1942. The transition from peace to war has completely eliminated private commerce. The entire movement of commerce and of ships is now vested in the hands of responsible government officials.

The Port Authority has, of course, been in constant touch with these officials and has demonstrated to them what can be done here from the points of view of labor, facilities, services, to mention some of the most important factors. The Port at various times is an extremely busy place but its capacity has not been taxed, so there is still work to do.

A message of appreciation from General Foods

PROVIDING the vast quantities of food that are necessary to victory is a tremendous task.

In accepting a share of that task, General Foods has faced new and critical wartime problems . . . problems of research, supply, packaging, and distribution.

That we have partially solved some of these problems is due not to our own efforts alone—but, in nearly every case, to the help and co-operation of others.

And so, as this first year of war ends, we want to say "Thank you" . . .

. . . To suppliers—the food growers and producers who have labored unceasingly to increase the nation's vital stocks of food.

. . . To distributors and retailers—who have uncomplainingly accepted limited deliveries of some of our products.

. . . To the public—the men and women of America who have cheerfully accepted shortages and rationing.

. . . To the Army and Navy—which have guided us in packing part of the rations for America's armed forces.

. . . To the Government agencies—which are striving to make rationing and price-and-wage controls workable.

. . . To the other members of the food industry—who have shared the common task in the spirit of generous co-operation.

. . . To many vital services which help—transportation, warehousing, and communications.

. . . To our stockholders—the owners of this enterprise, who support the company in its wartime program.

. . . To our employees—who, to aid the war effort, are working harder than ever before.

. . . To General Foods men in armed services—who have left us temporarily . . . whose service will be a constant inspiration to those of us who remain on the job at home.

We are working together voluntarily and eagerly with many others in a common cause—supplying food for our soldiers and sailors and the far-greater armies of America's civilians, and our allies.

Our appreciation is deep for all who freely aid in this mighty effort.

We are especially thankful for the meaning of those words "voluntarily and eagerly." For they are part and parcel of Democracy at work—the goal for which we are fighting.

Whiteside Sees Axis '43 Defeat

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—A. D. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., declares "there are substantial grounds to believe that there is reasonable possibility that the United Nations will defeat the Axis countries in Europe in 1943."

Whiteside, writing in the latest Dun's Review, added: "It hardly seems possible that Japan will not be defeated in less than a year after the collapse of the Axis coalition in Europe."

CONGRESS TURNS ATTENTION TO TAX PROBLEM HEADACHE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The new Congress officially turns its attention to wartime tax problems today as the House ways and means committee organizes for consideration of a pay-as-you-go collection system and for finding more billions in new levies.

Indications are that the committee will separate pay-as-you-go considerations from all other tax problems, and may limit hearings in an effort to put income tax collections on a current basis by March 15.

The 25-member committee, headed by 79-year-old Rep. Doughton (D.) of North Carolina, is confronted also by a Presidential request that it raise $16,000,000,000 in taxes and compulsory loans in addition to the $35,000,000,000 expected annually from present laws.

Preliminary to the committee session, Rep. Robertson (D.) of Virginia, member of the tax-framing body, suggested a plan calling for curbing of lower-bracket 1942 income taxes and imposition of a 20 per cent withholding levy on current incomes (after allowable deductions) of all taxpayers.

This was a modified version of a proposal by Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to skip all 1942 individual income taxes, high as well as low brackets, in attaining a pay-as-you-go basis. Doughton is vigorously opposed to general forgiveness of 1942 obligations. Offering what he termed a middle course, Robertson said:

"The only income tax that all pay alike is the normal tax of six per cent and the first bracket surtax of 13 per cent, a total of 19 per cent. If that amount of the 1942 liability be eliminated all taxpayers would be treated alike."

Yet the Treasury would lose much money unless a substantial proportion of 1943 liability be collected at the source.

"A withholding tax of 20 per cent, not upon gross but upon net taxable income, would extend the Ruml plan to 90 per cent of the taxpayers, making them 100 per cent current. And instead of causing loss to the Treasury would add millions of dollars to the Treasury receipts for the fiscal year of 1944."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today increased maximum prices on the sale of maple syrup by producers to packers. Farmers Still Paid To Curtail Crops!

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In the midst of the growing food crisis, the government is still paying the farmers not to produce!

That incredible piece of bureaucratic fumbling—the almost forgotten ghost of the Triple A program—was brought to light by two Illinois congressmen—Leslie C. Arends and Anton Johnson, and Arends said:

"Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard is demanding more and more production—and is talking of increased subsidies to the farmers.

"And at the same time, in the name of soil conservation, a $400,000,000 fund being paid out to farmers to curtail their production!

"It is fantastic to think of paying them not to raise crops."

BATTILING CAMBRIDGE ENSIGN SPURS FUND DRIVE FROM SEA

"We've not floating around the waters here, there and everywhere, or diving into fox-holes for fun. Our sole reason for being where we are is to keep this world, our own country and our individual communities free—free so that we may carry on 'community funds' and all the things they stand for."

This pointed comment on the aims of America's fighting men was received today at headquarters of the Greater Boston United War Fund campaign in a letter from a Cambridge naval officer on duty "Somewhere in the Atlantic."

The letter, from Ensign Richard A. Dow of Brattle st., Cambridge, who served as a fund campaign district leader last year, was made public by fund officers as they announced that contributions to date total approximately $3,250,000. The campaign goal is $7,800,000 and the deadline is Feb. 10.

"We don't want to come back to a life in which charitable agencies are unable to exist because the more fortunate are too busy with their own petty problems to trouble themselves," the ensign wrote to fund officials.

"The country-wide problems and the world-wide programs stem from community problems. Make every community a better place to live and you won't have much trouble making this country and the world a better place to live."

Next official report on Fund totals will be made at a luncheon at the Boston City Club tomorrow. J. Wells Farley, executive director of the state Committee on Public Safety, is scheduled as speaker, and Comedian Edward Everett Horton will be an honor guest.

26 Gold Star ★ Heroines

By PAULINE WARREN

IN SOUTH BOSTON on the second floor of a Boston street tenement house there is a neat flat in which Mrs. Mary Aptacy lives.

The living room has such nice furniture that Mrs. Aptacy keeps it covered with bedspreads—bedspreads so crisp and immaculate they scent the room with their fresh-laundered fragrance.

Apart from this treasured furniture, lace curtains and henille rug, the room's only decorations are photographs of men in uniform. They adorn the mantel and the walls and when you look at them closely you find a remarkable family resemblance. These pictures are of the four sons and stepsons of Mrs. Aptacy.

The oldest, Sergt. Alexander Pacuska of the United States Army, was killed in action a year ago. He was among the first to die in the war against Japan. Just where Mrs. Aptacy still doesn't know. The telegram she received from the War Department did not give her any clue.

It's been a hard year for Mrs. Aptacy. Right after the telegram announcing the death of her first-born arrived, two more of her sons joined up to avenge him. Where they are now, she doesn't know. They wrote regularly at first, but she hasn't heard from them in weeks. She thinks this means that they have been sent to battle areas abroad.

MRS. MARY APTACY, GOLD STAR MOTHER
Grieves Over Loss of Son in War Against Japan

Her fourth son, the youngest, Walter, 21, is a soldier, too. At least she knows where he is—somewhere in this country.

"It's bad for one to cry so much," says Mrs. Aptacy. "If I work hard, perhaps I won't cry. So I'm going to school to learn English. My sons will come back perhaps. They won't die like the first one. They'll be proud of their mother when I speak good English."

"I have been in this country for 34 years. I was married here and raised my children here. I lost my first husband, then I married again. I cooked, cleaned house, washed, made clothes and so I didn't have time for study."

"I cooked for 10 and they were always hungry. I had everything—it was beautiful. Now I have nothing. Only my husband and daughter are left and our big table is so empty."

"I cry, then to keep from crying, I go out and walk and buy food and cook it. But now there's only three! Our table is so lonesome."

"I wish I could kill Hitler."

"My son wrote before he died:

"I fight for two countries, my country and the country (Poland) where you came from—I will fight extra hard."

"But he's dead and I don't know where. Do you suppose there's a cross over him? Please, we must win the war. I have been here for years. I never went back to my mother country. This is a good country. We must not lose this war. If everybody fights, we won't lose. If everybody is busy, we won't worry so much and, bye and bye, our sons and husbands will come back."

Worn, moving with difficulty, with heavy sorrow in her heart, Mrs. Aptacy is satisfied with her lot—her life of hard work, of ceaseless scrubbing to keep that flat immaculate and a happy place for her family. She's satisfied with all of it, if only, ah!—if only—

AMERICA WINS THE WAR.

A BOSTON subscriber says he offered the above toast to his fair companion at a dinner for two 10 years ago. Shortly after he proposed and was accepted. Now the same toast is used by him at all wedding anniversary dinners. What toast do you offer to your wife, sir?

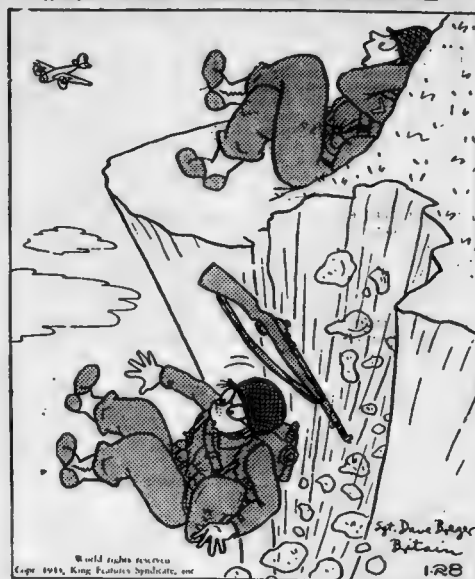

IN 1526 A. D. the prophet Nostadamus wrote that the end of the world would come in the year when Good Friday falls on April 23, Easter on April 25 and Corpus Christi Day on June 24. That all happens in 1913. It also happened in 1886. It is now possible to make artificial fog. This can be used as air raid protection. Some Yankee genius should go to work on the idea of making an artificial winter. Then our armed forces could get the Japs all dressed up in their tropical uniforms in some hot spot and suddenly turn loose on them a 30 degree below zero blizzard.

WARNING: As to that Californian who was the target of three shots fired by an irate actress. If he had been a reader of this department and heeded the oft repeated warning of our Horses & Women Research Bureau it would probably never have happened to him. For the benefit of new readers among our male subscribers we will again quote this warning originally voiced by the Messrs. Beaumont and Fletcher:

The fool that willingly provokes a woman
Has made himself another evil angel,
And a new hell, to which all other torments
Are but mere pastime.

speaking up for the nurses lately. What are you trying to do, square yourself for saying that nurses were wonderful and efficient girls but were cold and aloof in the moonlight? A—I never made such a statement. One of the subscribers did. And a number of others agreed with him. The theory of one New York bachelor who had been disappointed in a nurse as a moonlight companion was that these young women were compelled by their profession to hold their feelings in check so much that they had difficulty in becoming demonstrative in the moonlight, on hay rides, strolls by the seaside, etc. Q—Could a man deduct his horse-playing losses from his income tax returns? A—He could but only if he also put down his winnings.

ASIDES: "Is Katharine Hepburn High Hat?" is title of film fan magazine article. Whether this or that star is "high hat" seems a favorite subject of discussion among some people in the film colony. Worrying, as to whether other people are "high hat" is a certain sign of an inferiority complex. . . . Am asked if I remember Florence Mills singing: "I'm a Little Blackbird Looking for a Bluebird." I do. I would like to hear Hazel Scott sing it some time. . . . Writes a Detroit salesman: "That saleswoman who wrote you is probably a mere order taker. One of those dumb, dizzy dames who depends on her 'oomph' and charm to get her by rather than any selling ability. There are many like her. Few female sales persons have any knowledge of the product they are trying to sell. That's why salesmen invariably outsell saleswomen."

TAXES—In making out his income tax an expectant father claimed his about to be born child as a dependent. Government wouldn't allow the claim, saying a child could not be rated a dependent until it was born. That is a point that could be argued. An imminent blessed event certainly increases a man's expenses. The Chinese do not figure the age of a child from the date of its birth but from the date of conception. Doesn't a child's growth start then? Doesn't the smart mother to be start thinking of her child's health from that date?

SIDEGLITS: Darsie Darsie, Baldwin Baldwin, Florentine Florentine and Arthur Arthur, all members in good standing of the double barreled name-club were much interested to learn that U. S. Army Pvt. Joseph Joseph is stationed in Walla Walla, Wash. . . . A group of coeds defining a male type known as "a wolf" described the same as: "A man who is terrific with the ladies and who is handsome in a dark, predatory way." That isn't the way I heard it. My understanding is that a so called "wolf" is not necessarily a terrific hit with the ladies nor is he always handsome. He is just predatory. Of course, I may be wrong. I have given up all hope of understanding the feminine language. I don't even know what a woman means when she says a thing or person is "cute." I heard one young woman describe both her Pekinese pup and her 240-pound husband as "cute."

PASSING BY: Ethel Barrymore. Second lady of the theater. Has been a star for 42 years. It was in 1900 that Charles Frohman gave Miss Barrymore her first top billing as Madame Trentoni in "Captain Jacks of the Horse Marines."

WANTS TO KNOW IF PRESIDENT HAS BECOME 'SHORT SNORTER'

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY—Yesterday afternoon I had the great pleasure of seeing our son, Jimmy's, executive officer, who is here for a few days getting certain things straightened out for their raider group.

He told me how they recruited for the group. This time it is composed of boys from both coasts, which I think is a very good thing, since the more boys from different parts of the country become intimately acquainted, the better.

This young officer has been in the Marine Corps for several years and I am sure that he is very thorough in his work.

FOUR OF US SAT AROUND the radio in my sitting room last night and listened for an hour to the various stories of the past ten days.

The fact that my husband was in Casablanca was, of course, no surprise to me, but it was amusing this morning to have the various people in the house exclaim with surprise over the destination of his trip.

The household, of course, had to know that the President was away, but they were evidently completely surprised to find that he had been in Africa.

MY HUSBAND HAS NEVER ENJOYED the mere sense of flight the way I do, and I am quite sure that having to start out at 4:00 a. m. was not a great pleasure to him. 't the first opportunity we have for frivolous conversation, I am going to find out whether he has already been made a "short snorter."

FOR THOSE WHO MAY NOT KNOW what this means, I should explain that you are a "short snorter" when you fly across an ocean, and the fraternity has grown quite large of late. One of the rules is that a new member must pay a dollar to every member present at his initiation.

If he is ever separated from his bill, which all members are supposed to carry on their persons, and he cannot produce it within a given number of minutes, he must again pay a dollar to all members present for his infraction of the rule.

I FEEL A GREAT SENSE of gratitude to both the press and the radio chains for the wonderful way in which the story of this conference was guarded until the release date.

With so many people knowing this story for such a long time, I think it speaks well for our common sense that there was so little conversation about it, and that the responsible people whose job it is to give out news, were so careful and lived up so meticulously to their pledge of secrecy.

Nan Wynn telling it to two Marines—who loved hearing it—at Sardi's.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr., lunching alone the other day in the Down Under restaurant, gave up his table to three uniformed lads—who certainly would have needed seats if they'd known who he was . . . BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

POTPOURRI (Without the Meat): Leopold Stokowski insists that the boys in the camps prefer Brahms, Mozart and Chopin to Berlin, Gershwin, and Loesser . . . (The last named wrote "Pass the Ammunition") . . . Jack Pearl advances the following as a solution to the case of the Flynn: Send Eddie to Hollywood, send Errol to Australia and make Jimmy Petrillo chairman of the Democratic Party in exchange for permission to wax recordings in America.

A DEAR, DEAR FRIEND of Lana Turner's sends word that Lana will re-marry Stephen Crane after the Baby - Who - Gave - the Longest-Notice-of-Arrival-in-History cribs into the Turner menage next July . . . Incidentally, Jim Murley, the Boston advertising man, says that he can produce authority for calling Mr. Crane a "digamist" . . . It means merely that a man has been married twice, not necessarily at the same time . . . Another Boston girl-writer gets famous tomorrow with release of a novel called "The Whole Heart" . . . She is Helen Howe . . . Helen outdoes the celebrated Mr. Marquand in spoofing such down-east characters as H. M. Pulham (Esq.) and the late George Apley . . . We know a playwright who would like to team up with Miss Howe in bringing her novel, "Briggie," to the stage . . . Ira Steiner, the tub-thumper for the William Morris agency (actors', authors' representatives) is at the Touraine . . . The William Morris Office (as Mr. Steiner's factory is referred to respectfully in show-business) handles Duke Ellington.

THE DUKE COMES to Symphony Hall tonight, and Symphony Hall is where (Mr. Steiner points out) such long-hairs as Serge Koussevitzky, Richard Burgin, Arthur Fiedler and Benjamin Goodman have played . . . He doesn't know that the place has been a jumpin' jive-jern on certain occasions when the hottest bands in the business have had temporary asylum there at a $1.00 top, (with the ladies paying as well as the gents) . . . The great Ellington, however, rates the major part of a column once in a decade . . . The Times critic has called him "the foremost creative force in popular music" (As for us, we'll string along with Berlin) . . . Disregarding The Times man letting himself go like that,

IT'S THE DUKE . . . ELLINGTON
He's in Town Tonight—At Symphony Hall

the fact is that musicians generally place Ellington in their No. 1 spot when reckoning the bigtime leaders.

MR. ELLINGTON landed in New York with a five-piece band circa 1924-'25 . . . He played in a place called the Kentucky Club . . . Three of those original five men are still with their constant leader . . . Fellow-musicians attracted attention to The Duke—by raving and patronizing with their friends of the laity of the old Kentucky Club . . . The band was enlarged and moved to the Cotton Club Dec. 4, 1927 . . . That night marked Ellington's beginning as a bigtimer, and he's been one ever since . . . Ziegfeld featured him in "Show Girl"; Maurice Chevalier (has Hitler really got him as the U. S. Reds allege?) introduced Duke in vaudeville, and the band made the Palace, chief stand of two-day vaudeville in the waning years of that famous theater . . . Maestro Ellington started making records under various pseudonyms for several record companies . . . And then he wrote "Mood Indigo."

THE DUKE returned to the Cotton Club, his greatest love . . . He played the show which debuted the deathless "Stormy Weather" . . . In 1933, Mr. Ellington toured the top concert halls of Europe . . . Hollywood used him in "Mystery at the Vanities" and "Belle of the 90's" . . . Neither film was very good, although "Belle of the 90's" featured Mae West in her celluloid novitiate . . . Before the word "swing" was connected with music, Duke recorded "It Don't Mean a Thing If You Ain't Got That Swing" . . . He won ASCAP's song-of-the-year prize in 1935 with "Solitude," and repeated in 1938 with "Caravan" and in 1939 with "I Let a Song Go Out of My Heart."

IN 1939, DUKE and his boys played in a bomb-proof (they thought) concert hall in Paris . . . The Ellingtons were the last American orchestra to play in Europe before it really reeked of Hitler . . . Duke has written more than a thousand arrangements, most of them his own compositions . . . He has made more than 400 records . . . He edged out Benny Goodman in "Downbeat's" poll for the No. 1 Swing Leader . . . He is very wealthy, and so popular that musicians and song publishers signalized his concert tour, just under-way, by proclaiming a "National Ellington Week" . . . These honors rest lightly, as they should, and you would like The Duke very much . . . We do,—live-bater 'tough we are.

FILM ON JACK LONDON'S LIFE WILL BE SENSATIONAL

By Louella O. Parsons

Copyright, 1943, by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28—When Jack London was a newspaper reporter on the old San Francisco Examiner in 1904 he electrified the world with his sensational scoop on the outbreak of war between the Russians and the Japanese. Jack had predicted that Japan would attack Russia and everybody laughed at him. But the Japs did make war in the same underhanded way they sneaked on Pearl Harbor! London had stowed away on a Jap fishing boat and had gone to Korea to get his story, and after filing the details of the invasion the Japs put him in prison.

The reason I mention this in such detail is that the sequence will be a sensational highlight on Samuel Bronston's United Artists movie, "Jack London," and in view of present conditions in the Pacific it should carry a tremendous wallop. Bronston, in other words, has written in this London episode.

ANN SAVAGE

IS THE LONG ROMANCE between Edmund Lowe and Lady Thelma Furness waning a bit? It looks that way, for even though Eddie has dined with Thelma in New York he and Ann Savage, his pretty leading lady in the skit he's been giving at Army camps in the East, have Eastern gossip columnists convinced they are in love. What's more, Eddie and Ann aren't denying a thing, and she is a sad girl because Columbia has pagered her to come home for "Two Senoritas From Chicago," while Eddie remains in New York. But what Ann doesn't know is that her boy friend is also being beckoned home for this same picture and will follow her to the Coast in a couple of days. "Two Senoritas From Chicago" is the musical with Jinx Falkenberg and Joan Davis—and Eddie, of course, has the male lead.

AT THIS WRITING all is sweetness and light between 20th Century-Fox and their problem child, George Sanders. Every once in a while George gets up his dander and refuses to do a picture and is suspended. But he is such a good actor that after he puts a bit he is always forgiven. Kenneth McGowan has been talking with George about making a movie based on the life of Dr. Norman Bethune, the great American scientist who developed the modern blood bank which makes it possible for blood transfusions to be given on the battlefield. These transfusions have saved countless lives and George is excited over the story and hasn't registered a single note of protest.

OVER THE LONG DISTANCE telephone Dick Terry told me that he and June Preisser, his wife, were all packed to come to Hollywood when their baby son arrived prematurely. The proud papa is to make a picture for Columbia studios. I am glad to say that June is doing nicely and Dick now will remain with his little family until they are able to travel. He tells me I am to be the godmother, and I couldn't be happier, for I am very devoted to the little Preisser girl, who was with me two seasons on personal appearance tours.

A LINE OR TWO: Too bad about Judy Garland and Dave Rose. Judy was so in love with Dave and so radiant at the time of their marriage. Lately I have seen her dining often with her sister and looking unhappy. Perhaps there was too much difference in their ages and Dave, who is such a brilliant musician, seemed more engrossed in his work than his marriage . . . Margaret Bourke-White, war photographer, is now offering the story of her life for the movies . . . Heard it whispered on the 20th Century-Fox lot that a story is being whipped up based on the lives of Gypsy Rose Lee and her sister, June Haver. The girls will be offered their "dile" roles . . . Nice letter from Greg Bautzer from U. S. naval air station. He says he hopes to soon receive his wings as a naval flier and is very happy that he is no longer sitting at a desk. Greg certainly has proved his worth and his friends are proud of him . . . Lester Cowan, who produced "Commandos Strike at Dawn" and "Ladies in Retirement," is talking a deal with United Artists. He and Columbia are parting . . . Met Helen O'Hara, pretty daughter of Henry Clive, at Marion Davies' house. Both Marion and I remarked how much Helen resembles Marilyn Miller. She is under contract to Paramount—and such a lovely looking girl . . . "Private Miss Jones" is Joe Pasternak's one hundredth movie.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Ed Judson, Rita Hayworth's ex, returned from Mexico City to attend his mother's funeral. Says he is going right back and that A. H. Blumenthal has opened a night club that is going to be offered their residents and visitors. Busby Berkeley is fighting pneumonia and trying to get well so he can finish "Girl Crazy," the Judy Garland-Mickey Rooney musical.

Heroic Russian Ski Troops Highlight Normandie's Hit

While the Nazis, whose welcome headlines these days, were within 50 miles of Moscow, the intrepid official cameramen of the Soviet army turned out "In the Rear of the Enemy," an inspired and thrilling proof of gallantry, which is the top news at the Normandie.

Here's an authentic, exciting account of what the ski troops were able to accomplish under terrific odds. There are three of them here, whose story is graphically unfolded against the sub-zero snows of Russia. Commissioned to trace a broken telephone line, their search leads them to a deserted farmhouse, which has been a hidden headquarters for the enemy.

Their immense courage and resourcefulness—and it's as true as it can be—their efforts to report to their command and at last their miraculous escape, combine to make one of the most startling and inspirational films of the war. It's a front page story, with more suspense than a half a dozen cut-to-order "mellers" from the studios, as well as a splendid commentary on the valor and perseverance of the Soviet fighting men.

Incidentally, "In the Rear of the Enemy" is the first Soviet film made with English dialogue. I was sent from Moscow to London, and English voices were dubbed in. You'll recognize Herbert Marshall's voice, even though it does seem a bit on the incongruous side to hear that suave Oxonian accent being mouthed by some body with a name like Nikola Krushkov, or Alexander Grechani.

On the Hollywood side, the thrills on the new bill are provided by "Man of Courage," which has Barton MacLane in a tall tale new to Boston film-goers.

Duke Ellington's Concert In Symphony Hall Tonight

Duke Ellington, whose concert for Russian War Relief last Saturday night filled Carnegie Hall and the stage to overflowing, brings his orchestra to Symphony Hall tonight to repeat that program.

The principal item will be a new work called "Black, Brown and Beige," a symphonic arrangement of several themes from an opera he did some time ago called "Boola." In it, he tries to tell the story of the Negro in musical terms and many of the New York critics were agreed that he tells it with dignity, feeling and also good humor.

Mayor Tobin, long an admirer of Ellington's music, has indicated his intention to be present at the concert. During the intermission, Arthur Fiedler, Boston Symphony "pops" concert conductor, is to make a presentation to Duke Ellington in recognition of his outstanding contribution to modern American music.

Incidentally, the original manuscript of "Black, Brown and Beige" has been given to Yale University's collection of Negro Arts and Letters.

Arthur Pierson, who has directed and written some of the "Ziegfeld Follies" sketches, is looking for a new play for Broadway production.

Manuscripts may be addressed to him at the Shubert Theatre.

"The type of play? Any play I happen to like and I like any good play. In these days, however, I think audiences want to laugh, not to be reminded of the horrible realities of war. And yet, one of Broadway's biggest hits is 'The Eve of St. Mark.'"

Spy Thriller Sets Merry Pace for Trans-Lux Fans

By HARRIS MORGAN

When husky ex-football player Bruce Bennett unintentionally rehearsed for the trouble-shooter role in "Underground Agent," now screening at the Trans-Lux, there were no enemy agents in the offing.

That was when, after leaving college, he got a job checking up illegal use of telephone wires and helping apprehend persons who tampered with communication systems. His real-life experience, coupled with the ease and naturalness inevitably acquired during his big-time athletic career, come to his assistance now in his present two-fisted characterization. He is convincing and likeable.

The story's locale is the West Coast where Axis wire-tapping is endangering vital war secrets. Bennett, young but experienced trouble-shooter, is surprised one day by summons to a conference of federal men, war plant directors and telephone company officials. They have selected him to smoke out the Axis agents. Two men have been killed on the same assignment. Bennett, planning to enlist, readily agrees he may be of more value to his Uncle Sam in this civilian capacity.

But he makes a single request . . . that he choose his own working staff, this to include Frank Albertson, amateur detective; Leslie Brooks, secretary; Julian Rivero, chief assistant, and George McKay, chauffeur.

Two of Bennett's aids are killed, millions of dollars' worth of vital war supplies are menaced, thrills galore develop with machine-gun precision before Bennett succeeds in wiping out the nest of Nazi rats.

Michael Gordon's direction keeps Columbia's exciting melodrama at a fast clip. Newcomer Leslie Brooks, who once looked at you from the magazine covers, is even lovelier in motion.

Another celebrated athlete, All-American halfback Bruce Smith, is the name-star of "Smith of Minnesota," the co-feature co-starring with the unusually pretty Arline Judge. In the course of carrying over his swivel-hipped abilities to a movie set, young Smith reveals a husky, soft-spoken charmer.

Stork Moratorium During War Urged

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—A moratorium on child-bearing until the end of the war was urged today by Alderman M. Campbell, a member of the Wembley council.

"No woman on earth, or at least of the nations engaged in war, should bring children into the world for the duration of the war," he argued.

His statement came during debate on the question of granting special leave during confinement for married women on the council's permanent staff.

Artur Schnabel Concert on March 7

Tickets for the Artur Schnabel concert in Symphony Hall on March 7 are now on sale. Mr. Schnabel is departing from his usual choice of an all-Beethoven program to include Schubert and Mozart sonatas, explaining this by saying: "A musician should not carry a label of any kind. I am not a Beethoven specialist. I am a musician."

NOEL COWARD ADDS TO HIS THEATER FAME

For a long time, it is said, Noel Coward wanted to write a naval story extolling the courage of men who sail the seas in war and peace. The culmination of this idea was "In Which We Serve," the story of a ship from her launching to her destruction off Crete, which is currently on the screen of the Loew's State and Orpheum Theater.

But this naval film was a means of satisfying another Coward desire—to produce and direct his own story. The result is a notable and beautiful production well fitted for dedication to the courageous men of the Royal Navy.

But Coward is more than author, director and producer. He composed the music for "In Which We Serve," and he plays the main part as Capt. Kinross.

At the age of 43, Coward has behind him many years of experience as author, producer, composer and actor in the theater.

Born in Teddington, England, on Dec. 16, 1899, he made his first stage appearance in 1910 in a children's play. He's been acting ever since. In 1921 he came to the U. S. for the first time, and it was not long after that that his name was known throughout America as well as England.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Paulette Goddard's complexion is as delicate as her corsege of "cyps," and you may well say that the mild climate in which she basks has a lot to do with that! You can counteract the effect of climatic harshness here by using a special foundation cream which has in it pure lanolin, says Arline Gould.

Pure Lanolin in This Cream

By ARLINE GOULD

WE HAVEN'T BY ANY MEANS said our say about dry skins this winter . . . lucky for you who've been thoughtless or neglectful of yours up to this point! If your skin is shuddering at the mere sight of a powder puff . . . and looks sandpappy when you use the tiniest film of powder . . . you're the one who should be using a special foundation cream with pure lanolin.

This would seem to be a paradox of a cosmetic . . . since lanolin is oily and rich, and a foundation cream is intended to give a velvety-smooth, mat finish to the skin . . . you'd certainly expect a cream with lanolin in it to make your face shiny and oily. However, this lush cream has been perfected so it tints your complexion any shade you wish, from a rosy tone to a deep tan, protects it from harsh weather, keeps it supple and soft, and creates a velvet make-up that looks absolutely flawless!

It is of the "concealing" variety . . .

which means that it blends over all sorts of minor blemishes and makes them quite invisible.

Airy light of texture, the cream is exquisitely smooth . . . which is a mercy if your skin is very dry and sensitive . . . and it comes in delectable, flattering skin tones of peach, rachelite, brunette, suntan, Hawaiian, or nut brown!

Now that you've gotten down to really serious budgeting, with March 15 facing you as a reality and not a rumor, and you're counting dimes and quarters as you never did before . . . you'll be glad to know that you may try this unusual cosmetic in a 10c. size. There is a 35c. size, and one for $1, which is excellent for the glass shelf in the bathroom or the little table in the window niche that you use for putting on your face, because it has the best light!

Your face won't have that pinched, squeezed look it gets from zero weather and sharp winds, if it's protected by this glamour-making cream.

For shopping details on it, phone Arline Gould, LI 674 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Army Develops New Ration

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Do you know anything about the canned ration developed by the Quartermaster Corps for the Army?

Dieticians of the quartermaster corps of the Army have developed a new ration which is especially for motorized and mechanized forces. It contains three full meals for five men for one day, and is prepared in a few minutes by heating.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've heard that the government will make use of the bee for war purposes, and so the busy little bee is being sent South. Is that so, and why?

CURIOS.
The busy little bee will not rest this winter. Beeswax is needed for explosives, and honey is needed as a sugar substitute. Therefore, the northern bees are going South so they can work all the year 'round.

OPA Fixes 'Par' for Your Pantry

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—OPA has decided on what's par for your pantry.

So now you can start adding up your stock of canned goods to get a line on how you stand with regard to the rationing program expected to start in a few weeks.

Par is five cans or bottles of rationed items per person, not counting cans containing less than eight ounces, like small cans of baby foods.

Any amount over that calls for a penalty.

A family of four, for example, can declare 20 cans or bottles of fruits, vegetables, soups and juices without losing any of its ration.

In making your declaration to the rationing board, you won't have to count your stock of frozen or dried fruits and vegetables (but remember that these will take ration stamps when you buy them later.)

In view of the latest announcement, this looks like a good time to review the main points of this rationing program:

1—Foods to be rationed: All canned or bottled fruits, vegetables, soups and juices and baby foods; frozen fruits and vegetables; dried fruits.

2—Your share: Remains to be determined. Each item will be assigned a point-value—scarcer goods will be worth more points than others, and the points may be changed from time to time. Your ration will be fixed in total points per rationing period (which may be a month or some other length of time).

The ration stamps will bear point totals (8, 5, 2 and 1) and letters (A, B, C and so on) which will indicate the period in which they may be used. If A, B and C stamps are made valid for the first period, for example, your point total for that period would be 48. (This figure has been mentioned frequently, but OPA hasn't announced its decision.)

3—How to get your ration book: At a time yet to be announced, you or some member of your family must take your No. 1 ration book (the one used for sugar and coffee) to your rationing board's office. The rationing clerk will pencil an "X" across stamp No. 19 to indicate that the holder has received book No. 2. (You'll get back book No. 1, as it will continue to be used for sugar and coffee.) You must declare how many cans and bottles of rationed items you have—on a family basis.

4—Penalties: Before the clerk gives you book No. 2, he is instructed to tear out one 8-point stamp for every can in excess of the allowable total. If there are four persons in your family, for instance, and you have 24 cans, that would be four over the limit, and the clerk would take one 8-point stamp out of each of the family's four books. The size of these extra cans won't make any difference so long as they're 8-ounce or larger. (Home-canned goods don't count.)

There are 24 such 8-point blue-colored stamps in each book. If the family doesn't have enough of these to cover the penalties, the clerk is to make a note of that fact on the books, and the remainder of the penalty would apply to any future ration books.

With your books in hand, you'll be ready to start budgeting your buying—in points as well as in cash. The blue stamps will be for canned and bottled goods; the red stamps in the same book will be used later for rationing meat.

Note: Under present plans, you won't have to surrender any ration stamps when you eat in a restaurant.

P.S. OPA expects you to have some canned goods on hand. There'll be one week just before rationing stamps when you won't be able to buy any. That's to give the stores a chance to stock up their shelves.

Keep Tray Off Coffee Table

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

I have had a discussion with some friends of mine as to whether it is proper to leave the glass tray on the coffee table when it is not in use, or to keep the tray off except when the table is in use. Which is proper?

N. P.
It is better to remove the tray, since this kind of accessory has a maddening way of luring the dust (even when a housekeeper is most punctilious about dusting, and therefore not looking as attractive as we would wish).

LITTLE THINGS HELP

By BETTINA BEDWELL

I SUPPOSE that a good many of you are feeling pretty sick and tired of the clothes you've been wearing all winter. You need a change, and at the same time any major change at this time may be hard to come by.

That doesn't need to give you the blues, however. There are always ways and means to give yourself a lift by making some changes in your clothes set-up, even though they be small.

Of course the easiest way is a gay new hat, but if even that is too much right now, why not add something new to the hat you feel you have to wear for a while longer? A new veil, ribbon, or flowers will do wonders.

First, of course, you must brush and clean, and freshen up your old headpiece, and then add the little new touch. An artificial flower on your coat to match the one on your hat is allowable, and may be a great asset. Or a bright scarf to fill in the neckline of the coat you've been wearing so long. A pair of pretty colored gloves will help.

And it is not too early to add a jabot of frosty, beautifully fresh white to your dress neckline. Or you may prefer a striped ribbon scarf that you can tie in a bow at your neck.

WHETHER YOU'RE HONEYMOONING in the South, or sojourning there courtesy of Uncle Sam's provisions for the wives of his trainees . . . you'll want something like this for your beach hours. It's a decollete chemise top beach dress, which allows you to nut-brown your shoulders as long as you wish, and then to cover up with the little tailored bolero jacket. Joan Tetzel, radio actress, models this outfit . . . of navy and light blue rayon linen.—ANNICE BRINK.

Baering Down On the News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

All this buzzing of a post-war paradise is just making trouble among the Allies.

After the war is over this world is going to be in the same beautiful shape of a grapefruit after a trip in a dining car.

Why worry about who's going to run a wreck that's going to be in the garage for a good many years?

What the talk has done has created arguments in Yugoslavia, North Africa and right here. And I'm sure that Shicklegruber will agree with both sides to just keep the dissension boiling.

Household Tabbies Have Day at Show

Ordinary house cats of mingled and mystifying ancestry competed on equal terms with proud feline aristocrats at the 38th annual championship cat show today, when judges undertook to select the best cats of all breeds on display at the show.

Spectators crowded Horticultural Hall to see the entries, sent from all parts of the country. Newton's "Jay Tee" defeated all comers in the Siamese specialty show, while a blue Persian fluff aged six months and named "White Birch Honey Boy" was judged the best kitten.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Writer
While Mr. Roosevelt was in Africa and Mrs. Roosevelt was in Canada, Henry Wallace was top man in Washington.

With Harry Hopkins also away there was nobody left in the White House and 10 bureaus immediately staked claims to space.

It isn't safe to walk away from a big house like that in Washington with so many stenographers taking dictation in the parks and executives waiting on curbstone anterooms.

Everybody in Washington suspected Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill were meeting. Everybody in London suspected they were meeting. Everybody in Berlin knew they were meeting.

Apparently there was a leak in the back fence gossip line, but this was one secret we were glad to let the enemy have exclusively. He got no aid or comfort out of it.

Thought for the day: old home week.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 28 (AP).—Thousands of Chileans paraded through the streets of Santiago last night in approval of the government's action in breaking relations with the Axis. Later they heard President Rios describe the step as the only one consistent with national "tradition and spirit."

The parade was one of the largest mass demonstrations in Chilean history.

The marchers carried banners bearing such slogans as "Concentration Camps for Spies," "Liquidation of the Fifth Column," "Recognition of the Soviet Union" and "All for the Triumph of the Democracies."

Pacino Picked to Beat Britt

LARRY PACINO, who skyrocketed to ring fame out of the ranks of the All-America boxers, should win from Frankie Britt of Fall River in their 10-round bout at a Boston Boxing Ass'n show at Mechanics building tonight. I make this prediction despite the fact Britt has had more than 100 professional bouts, and has a brain that is packed with ring wisdom.

WILLARD BUCKLESS

Britt will rely on the same assets that enabled Hayes to outscore Pacino—speed and first-class boxing.

You do not find veteran boxers like Britt standing still when in the ring. Their years of experience have taught them that if they keep moving around during a bout they are a more difficult target for their opponent and that they have better chances to score with their own punches.

It usually makes a good scrap when an aggressive puncher like Pacino is trying to crack the defense of a crafty boxer like Britt. The latter is a master of pace, and he will know how to conserve his energy over the ten-round route. Pacino will have to be careful he does not use up all of his energy during the first four or five rounds and find himself without gas in the closing sessions. Even coupons will not give Pacino the kind of gas he will need if he tires in the closing rounds of his meeting with Britt.

The winner has been promised a bout with Garvey (Lefty) Young, the Marine, who will soon be eligible to fight following his 30-day suspension which was slapped on following his brawl with Ralph Zanelli.

Sergeant Eddie Mack Will Hold a Reception

SERGEANT EDDIE MACK, who has teamed up with Jack O'Brien in the operation of the Boston Boxing Ass'n, will hold a dozen or so informal receptions at the ringside. Tonight will mark the Sergeant's return to boxing after many a pleasant afternoon around the race tracks. The Old Sarge has decided that racing has pulled up a bit lame as a result of transportation difficulties and that it will have to go under wraps for the duration. While the Sarge does not promise to remain away from race track paddocks and his meetings with the merry men who punch out mutual tickets, he insists he will concentrate on boxing.

Experience has taught Mack that boxing booms during a war period and that when soldiers, sailors, Marines and aviators come home after gaining the victory, the ring sport usually hits new highs. The Sarge plans to be on the ground floor. He thinks the tussle between Pacino and Britt is a step in the right direction.

Willard Buckless Is Also on Card

WILLARD BUCKLESS, All-America welterweight champion a years ago and also A. U. titleholder, will try to continue winning as a professional when he tangles with Maurice Cloutier of Manchester, N. H. in a four-round bout. Buckless now boxes as a middleweight. He has a fine physique, is a good boxer, and punches well with each hand.

I also like Buckless to win. It should be quite an evening for former All-America champions at Mechanics Building.

Phils Offered Training Site

SHIPPENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 28 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phils, only major leaguers without a definite spring training site, were offered the facilities of Shippensburg State Teachers College.

John W. Lackhove, business manager of the college, made the offer to Gerald Nugent, Phils' owner, by telephone. Nugent replied that several places nearer Philadelphia were under consideration, but the invitation was left standing.

Swarthmore College is Nugent's No. 1 choice, but the Army may take over facilities there in the near future.

NARRAGANSETT RUSHES CASH TO HORSEMEN IN FLORIDA

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 28—Relief for horsemen stranded in Florida by the closing of the Florida race tracks will be speedily forthcoming, according to an exchange of telegrams between Harold Simmons, treasurer of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Ass'n (New England Division) and Judge James E. Dooley, executive head of Narragansett Park.

In the exchange of views between Simmons and Judge James E. Dooley, horsemen in trouble in the South were assured of help. In living up to the old saying that "the tracks take care of their own," the powers that be in racing circles have rallied to a worthy cause.

The following telegram was received by President Dooley:

"Would it be ok with you for H. B. P. A. to use $5000 to get horsemen out of Florida? Think Hialeah will match us. Am asking same of Lou Smith and C. F. Adams as you three tracks donated us this money. Things are mighty bad here. Judge Joseph A. Murphy and John Clark of Hialeah will be on committee disposing of money."

Signed: HAROLD O. SIMMONS.

Judge Dooley's reply: "Entirely agreeable with us for H. B. P. A. to use any part or all of its funds to assist horsemen in this emergency. Will be glad to join with other tracks in making additional contributions if necessary."

Signed: JAMES E. DOOLEY.

In asking permission of the three New England track heads to expend funds for this purpose, Harold Simmons pursued the correct course, for the funds were established to take care of death, sickness or like misfortunes that befall horsemen entirely without means.

The current problem is one of funds for transportation to the North.

The H. B. P. A. funds are raised by all members donating 1 per cent of their winning purses, with a limit of $15 from any one race. Three tracks, as in the case of Narragansett, donate 1 per cent of all purses at the meetings which do not exceed $1500.

Higher valued races and stakes are exempt. In 1942 Narragansett Park, by this arrangement, donated $5882 to the H. B. P. A. funds.

"The Florida emergency undoubtedly calls for immediate help," remarked Judge Dooley this afternoon, "and I would like to see all race track managements cooperate quickly in order to prove that racing can always take care of its own."

Cubs See Flag With Derringer

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs, who believe they "have a chance to go places this season," may have taken a step in the right direction last night in acquiring Paul Derringer, veteran Cincinnati pitcher.

Certainly they had the right-handed pitchers—an entire starting staff as a result of the cash deal—and there was every indication that it would be strictly right-handers the Cubs would rely on in their 1943 title bid.

Any southpaw regular must be developed from this year's recruits. Last year's lefties, Vern Olsen, Johnny Schmitz and Russ Meers have entered military service.

The 36-year-old Derringer, who has spent 12 years in the majors—the last 10 with Cincinnati—will team up with such likely right-hand starters as Claude Passeau.

Bill Lee, Lon Warnecke, Les Fleming, Tot Pressnell and possibly Dick Barrett, 34-year-old veteran of the minors obtained from Seattle.

In announcing the purchase yesterday, James Gallagher, general manager, said, "We believe we have a chance to go places this season and we needed another pitcher." The purchase price was not disclosed, but some sources put it at $15,000.

Derringer, although bothered by an old arm injury, appeared in 29 games last season, winning 10, losing 11 and finishing with an earned run average of 3.06. Before the transaction was completed, Manager Jimmy Wilson, a former Cincinnati teammate of Derringer's, said he was convinced the veteran would turn out high class work for at least another season.

Derringer himself recently asked to be traded or sold and the Red management agreed he had been in one place long enough. Derringer indicated a preference for the Cubs and that was alright with the Cubs. The right-hander always has been a Cub nemesis and has beaten the Bruins twice for almost every defeat handed out by the Chicagoans.

YANKS DOWN UNDER HOT FOR BASEBALL

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Americans are battling with baseballs as well as bullets in the Pacific. To the offices of Will Harridge, president of the American League, came a letter from Elmer W. Heindl, a chaplain with the armed forces "somewhere on a Pacific island."

It said, in part:

"We have received the three dozen baseballs, sent to us by Harry Grabner, vice president of the Chicago White Sox, at your request, and were very happy to get them. The primary issue of baseballs from the government was exhausted.

"Baseball is one of the strongest bonds that we have here in foreign service to tie us with home. As you know, we never feel more like Americans than when batting the old ball around. The men all agree that one of our anticipated pleasures, in the near future, will be to root again and again in the stadiums back home for our favorite teams."

Harridge called the letter and similar ones he had received "one of the best reasons I can give for keeping big league baseball rolling during this war."

Says Ted Would Hit Only .310 at Tepee

By HERB FINNEGAN

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up over the Miller migration and the Gomez infiltration when Johnny Keilty swept off on a tangent and thundered: "If Ted Williams had to play 77 games at Braves Field, his batting average would be exactly .310."

Matty Keany allowed as how Williams would hit .350 in the African desert, and Bud Gillooly said Larry Pacino could hit better than Williams any day in the week and if you didn't believe it just go to Mechanics Building tonight and watch him hit Frankie Britt.

"Braves Field is the batters' graveyard," Keilty continued ignoring the Gillooly barb. "They say it is a pitchers' paradise but a pitcher has to have runs to win, and they won't be getting Gomes many runs. I'm not knocking the Braves batters, understand. In fact the Sox sluggers wouldn't hit any more at Braves Field than Fernandez, Holmes, West, et al.

NANNY .350 AT FENS

"That east wind sweeps in like an arctic gale off the Charles, and even makes the ball soggy," Keilty went on. "Joe Cronin, Rube Tabor or Bobby Doerr wouldn't hit .270 there. Most of Williams' long drives would be routine outs, and he'd get so wild he'd toss bats all over the park. Only Sox who would do well at Braves Field would be line drive hitters like Finney, Lupien, Pesky.

"Take my boy, Mac West," Keilty insisted, though Keany still wanted Williams and Gillooly wanted Pacino. "West would be one of the game's ranking sluggers if he could get away from Braves Field, and I'd wager $50 against $5 that Fernandez would bat .350 if he could shoot at Fenway's left field fence 77 days every summer. That fellow's a real hitter. Even Tommy Holmes, whose power is to left center, would be a .320 hitter at the Fens.

RUTH LUCKY

"Member what Lou Novikoff said when he first saw the Allston prairie: 'Boy, if I had to hit in this park I'd be a pitcher.' Well, Mel Ott and Johnny Mize feel the same way about it, just as Chuck Klein felt when he left the Phils' bandbox for Chicago.

"Parks make the hitters, I tell you, and if Babe Ruth himself spent his big league career where he finished it (Braves Field) he'd never be known as the home run king."

Mr. Keilty, it seems, didn't like Braves Field.

"No, I don't," he admitted. "Ruined one of my favorite ball players—Ray Powell. Member how Ray used to run 20 miles a day chasing drives to the distant fences? That took five years off his baseball life, don't forget it."

It was pointed out that Rogers Hornsby hit .380 when he managed the Braves in '28.

"Now there was a 'hitter,' Keilty enthused. "I'll take him over Williams any day." But Keany insisted upon taking Williams, and Gillooly said Pacino could hit better than either of them.

Follies Star Versatile

For her short span of 19 years, petite Betty Atkinson, the "blonde blitz" of the Ice Follies of 1943, which plays the Boston Garden from February 10 through February 22, has certainly done things on a large scale and been places in a grande manner.

She started her theatrical career as a dancer in a Kiddie Revue. Later she took up baton twirling and before long was recognized as the nation's best in the drum majorette business.

Fred Waring gave her a job touring the nation with his band, featuring her as a baton twirler. Somewhere along the line she took time out to take up ice skating, learning the intricacies of the frozen figures from dark-haired Charles Hain, now her skating partner.

She and Hain perfected a spectacular adagio dance on ice and were signed for the 1943 Ice Follies.

MEMORIES OF LOBERT SOOTHE MacARTHUR

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Cadets at the North Carolina Navy Pre-Flight School will get some of their exercise next summer cultivating a 14-acre victory garden under the guidance of Lieut. Comdr. Harvey Harman, the athletic director, and Ensign Warren Chivers, former Dartmouth ski star.

And members of the Mid-Atlantic Greenkeepers Ass'n recently were urged to coax golf club members to do the same thing by turning the courses into huge gardens. . . . Chances are the golfers would find it easier than the aviation cadets.

They've been delving into the soil with niblicks for a good many years . . . but any amateur gardener can tell you that hoeing corn and digging spuds is plenty of exercise and maybe the Navy has the right idea in listing it as "labor engineering."

Just after the World Series, Hans Lobert of the Phils learned that one of his old West Point baseball pupils, Lieut.-Col. Red Reeder, was heading for Australia so he gave Red a letter to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who was superintendent of the military academy when Hans was coach.

The other day Lobert got a reply from Reeder, telling how the letter had been presented by General Sutherland, brother-in-law of Bucky Harris. . . . "For 25 minutes he (MacArthur) talked of football, baseball and you," Reeder said.

BIDS FOR FAME—Larry Pacino meets the toughest obstacle in his path to ring fame tonight when he takes on Frankie Britt in the main bout of the B. B. A. show at Mechanics Building tonight. Britt is a slight favorite to win over the ambitious Pacino.

BRITT CHOICE OVER PACINO IN B. B. A. MAIN

Larry Pacino of Roxbury, former All-America champion, will try to make it 12 wins in a row when he clashes with Frankie Britt of Fall River in a 10-round bout at Mechanics Building tonight under the direction of the Boston Boxing Ass'n.

Pacino will pit his youth, aggressiveness and punch against Britt's experience. Britt has been installed a 7-5 favorite to win. He has fought everybody, over a long span of years. He has held the welterweight and middleweight championships of New England. He is rangy, with an advantage in reach.

The main bout contestants wound up their training sessions Tuesday in superb condition, and when they weigh in today at noon it is expected that each will scale approximately 153 pounds.

Matchmaker Eddie Mack, who has come out of retirement to join hands with Johnny O'Brien in the B. B. A. has arranged a boisterous preliminary card. Soldier Montoya of Fort Devens and Jackie Capparoli of Roxbury meet in a special six-rounder, Andy Holland of New York will make his local debut against the Brown Bomber of Camp Edwards.

Willard Buckless of Saugus, former national amateur welterweight champion, will make his second pro start against rugged Maurice Cloutier of Manchester, N. H., in the featured four-rounder. In the other preliminaries, Armand Michaud of Lisbon, Me., is paired with Johnny Coe of Medford, and Irish Eddie Connolly of Charlestown with Jackie Donohue of the Coast Guard.

B. I. R. Rules Baseball Salaries Not Frozen

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (INS)—Major league baseball salaries will not be frozen, the Bureau of Internal Revenue will treat the sport just like any other business and the magnates can look forward to their usual full quota of holdout headaches in 1943.

From a most authoritative source it was learned baseball will be advised this week-end that it may carry on negotiations with all players just as it did in the past, regardless of what their salaries may be, provided it adheres to a few regulations laid down by the B. I. R.

ANSWER DUE SOON

President Ford Erick of the National League and Will Harridge of the American have written to the B. I. R. requesting a ruling on the matter of negotiations for the coming season and our informant says they will receive their answers in a few days.

Said answers will point out: Club owners will not need to gain formal approval from the bureau in order to grant individual wage increases if the increase comes within the normal salary schedule operated by the club in the past or last year.

MUST FILE SALARY LIST

The clubs will be required to file with the Bureau of Internal Revenue a full salary schedule covering the range of salaries paid in the past.

If the clubs keep within the "Merit or Service" increases provided in these schedules it will not be necessary to notify the bureau or ask any approval of them.

Since no ballplayers are earning a net salary of $25,000, after taxes are deducted, no question of salary ceilings has been considered.

24 PITT T-FORMATION DEAL SEEN PUZZLER

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (INS) — The sports people are awaiting some vital rulings from Washington—rulings that will have a direct bearing on football and other college athletics this year and next, and perhaps for the duration.

In the midst of this, the University of Pittsburgh, which has been in a state of football confusion for five or six years, hires a coach in the grand manner.

They don't merely get a guy who can go through the motions in times like these when there is all this uncertainty over what the game is going to be like in the future, if any. They rather out and bring in none other than T-Formation Shaughnessy, well-remembered victim of the de-emphasis at Chicago, hero of Stanford's resurgence and more lately doing a little better than all right at Maryland.

COMPETENT COACH

He goes to Pitt on the tail end of a football housecleaning that led eventually to the unseating of Jock Sutherland, who was a thoroughly competent coach and got the feel fellow deserving of a better fate than the politics that finally engulfed him. All he did was to put out winning football teams, which was the idea in the first place.

That's still the idea. For the people who saw the alleged evil of winning football, there has been a brief respite at Pitt, during which they have looked upon the mangling of their teams by opposition which wouldn't get beyond its end zone in the old days. It may be bad to win, but it's worse to keep on losing, as Pitt now seems to realize.

Hence, Mr. T-Formation himself comes upon the scene at a salary estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000 a year.

What nobody has been able to figure out is the meaning of all this, not that it necessarily is anybody's business.

INSIDE STUFF

But at a time like this and like the immediate future threatens to be Shaughnessy might be the genius above and beyond all geniuses without being able to win at football. You've got to have players. Don't tell me he's going to call the signals, handle the ball, do the blocking and the passing and the chores of a man in motion personally to make that T formation click.

Maybe Pitt has the inside stuff and knows the war is going to be over by the fall.

What the schools are waiting to find out, among other things, is whether the service men who will be quartered at more than 200 colleges will be permitted to play football with those teams, or be prevented from participating all together, or be built into separate service teams. They probably will be allowed to play with the colleges, if they can find the time, but there is nothing definite about it.

Meantime, the drain on athletes will start and hundreds will be swept away for the duration. All will lose athletic manpower and there is uncertainty everywhere. The usual January schedule-making meeting of the central office for eastern intercollegiate athletics has been postponed until March or April.

If at this point I may be permitted to vouchsafe a couple of opinions with the pearl-handled opinion vouchsafer that I always use on Thursday, I would like to suggest that (1) it looks as though Pitt figures things are going to be all right at the turnstiles next fall and (2) they are getting all set at the same time for the more distant future.

Mr. T. Formation will be there all set for an eventual boom.

A'S SCOUTS BEAT SOX, BRAVES TO N. E. STARS

Evidently there are those other than the writer who feel that Greater Boston boys do not get the attention they deserve from Boston's major league clubs. Follows a letter from E. J. Pontiff of Fall River:

"I was interested in your story in which you claimed a group of semi-pro ball players were overlooked by the Red Sox. You remarked that the reason fine prospects like Barney Olsen, Lennie Merullo and Eddie Waitkus went to the Cubs was because the Cubs pay the money.

"How about the young players a certain scout has nailed for Connie Mack the past three or four years? Take this boy Joe Coleman, present room-mate of Ted Williams in Anheuser's Pre-Flight prep. Here was a young kid playing for Malden Catholic High passed up by both Boston clubs . . . Last year he led the pitchers in the Inter-State League, winning 16 and losing 6 for Wilmington. He was figured to be a regular starter for the A's this year.

"The same scout recently signed Frankie Skaff, third baseman with the Manchester, N. H., club in the New England League. Skaff is built like and hits like Bob Johnson. A remarkable prospect. Before that he had lifted George Yankowski, Northeastern soph, from under the Sox nose, and young Bob Savage, the pitcher from Manchester. Remember the day late last fall they started as a battery against the Sox? Connie Mack said they were finest looking young battery in the majors.

"Then he capped all this by signing young Kevin Mulcahy of Wintthrop, best outfielder Holy Cross has had in recent years. It'll be great if these kids some season lead the A's to a pennant, won't it? And just because they can sign with other clubs for far better terms."

Lloyd Warner's announcement of retirement didn't create much furore, yet the younger brother of the more famous Paul had the best three-year batting record of any rookie ever to enter the big leagues. In 1927 as a freshman he made 223 hits for the Pirates and batted .355. In 1928 he made 221 hits and batted .335. In 1929 he made 234 hits and batted .353. Show me another rookie, including Cobb, Wagner, Collins, Speaker or Lajoie, who ever made 678 hits in his first three seasons in the majors? Or scored 388 runs, as did L. Warner.

Bob Quinn personally scouted Jim Turner and Lou Fette before they became 20-game winners for the Braves in '37. Last year, Bob personally scouted Nate Andrews and Charlie Barrett, veterans he's counting on to set the pace for the Braves pitchers this year . . . Andrews, Barrett, Jeffcoat, Gomez, Tobin, etc. Well, if the Braves don't have the best pitching staff in the league, at least it will be the oldest.

Hutson Voted Most Valuable

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (INS)—For the second consecutive season, Don Hutson, famous Green Bay Packer end, has been voted the most valuable player in the National Football League and winner of the Joe F. Carr award.

Elmer Layden, high commissioner of the professional grid game, disclosed Hutson's selection by a committee of newspapermen. The award brought to 17 the number of records the former University of Alabama star has set since the beginning of last season. He is the only man to win the Carr award twice.

Hutson scored 17 touchdowns, caught 78 passes, kicked 33 extra points and gained 121 yards last season and, with the pass-heaving Cecil Isbell, helped carry his team to record heights in passing.

Hutson, who has spent all of his eight year league football years with Green Bay, won a total of six first place votes in the committee's balloting. He was accorded the same number of first place ballots last year.

Second "most valuable player" honor went to Bill Dudley, prize Pittsburgh rookie and the league's champion ground gainer in 1942.

Dudley got two first place and four second place votes. Sammy Baugh, Washington's great back, was the only other player to receive a vote. He got one for first place and five for second.

BERRY OF GRID FAME BACK IN LIMELIGHT

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 28 (AP)—Reports that K. L. Berry, one of the most remarkable athletes the University of Texas ever had, is a prisoner of the Japanese recalls the football team they tell you down here was the greatest in history.

It also marks the third time over a period of 27 years that Berry has come into national notice.

The first time was when he left the university to play with the famous old Second Texas Infantry of World War I—a team pointed out in these parts as the mold from which all other great teams are made.

RETURNED TO GRID

The next time was when Berry, 10 years later, returned to the university to become an All-Southwest Conference lineman, resuming his athletic career at a time in life when most men are worrying about thinning hair, pudgy middles and their children's education.

Rip Collins, Travis County sheriff who played halfback on the second Texas team, declared that outfit still is the greatest of them all, notwithstanding the fine performances of service football eleven last season.

"I still maintain the opposition in 1916 was tougher," Collins said. "They wore baseball cleats on their shoes back in those days. And horse shoes in their shoulder pads. Clipping went then, too."

UNDEFEATED IN 1916

The 1916 second Texas was undefeated and untied, scored 432 points in eight games and gave up only six points. It defeated teams bulging with all-Americans, including the First New York Cavalry.

Collins apologized for the opponents' one touchdown, made by the Twelfth Division All-Stars. "The game was played in a blizzard and they scored against us when we had the fourth string in," he explained.
